Top Of The Morning

WEATHER

That word "snow" at the top of the page is more of a warning than an actual forecast. The Erie weather bureau predicts cool and cloudy weather continuing with a high in the mid 40s this afternoon. Partly cloudy and cooler, low 34, at night. Tomorrow variable cloudiness, not as cold. The high will be in the low 50s. Probability of precipitation, 20 per cent through Friday. Winds westerly 12 to 20 mph through tonight. Sun rise was at 7:46 a.m.; sunset will be at 6:23 p.m. Yesterday's 7 a.m. report: .64 precipitation, river level 6.72 and falling, high 54, low 41.

Kinzua Dam Report

Pool level at 8 a.m. yesterday was 1314.59. Reservoir temperature 55 degrees. Reading at the Warren gauge 6.77.

WARREN COUNTY

Erie County Commissioner William O. Hill Jr. has been asked by Warren County Commissioner Lewis L. Crippen to assume the presidency of the eight-county Northwestern Pennsylvania Regional Planning and Development Commission, the post Crippen held until his resignation Tuesday. Hill is expected to fill the vacancy.

THE NATION

The Treasury offered to pay the highest interest rate since June, 1921—5 1/4 per cent—in order to sell a seven-year note to help cover the big deficit in the budget. Rates have been steadily rising in the money markets, reflecting a large demand.

The Senate refused to go along with a House bill that would have required President Johnson to make sharp cutbacks in federal spending. The Council of Economic Advisers added fuel to the fiscal debate by disclosing that total federal expenditures had risen $20 billion from the third quarter of last year to the third quarter of this year.

By flying Sen. Hugh Scott in from England, the administration succeeded in getting its least controversial civil rights bill voted through the Senate Judiciary Committee. The bill strengthens criminal laws against intimidating or injuring Negroes and civil rights workers engaged in federally protected activities.

THE WORLD

The United Nations Security Council adopted unanimously a resolution condemning violations of the cease-fire in the Middle East and demanding that Israel and the United Arab Republic "cease immediately" all military activity and cooperate with the U.N. truce supervision organization.

The Egyptian government said the economy of the United Arab Republic had suffered a "serious blow" as a result of Israel's shelling Tuesday of the oil refineries at Port Suez.
A 10-square-mile area was left in flames visible from 40 miles away. The U.A.R., a spokesman said, now "must find oil elsewhere—probably paying for it with foreign currency of which we have very little."

At a Medal of Honor ceremony at the White House, President Johnson repudiated charges that Secretary of State Dean Rusk had injected a racial element into the debate over Southeast Asia. The secretary did not raise the spectre of the so-called "yellow peril," Johnson said. "We have utterly repudiated the racist nonsense of an earlier era," he added.

A new nonpartisan committee embracing both former presidents, several former cabinet officers, high-ranking World War II commanders, Nobel laureates and other distinguished Americans gave strong endorsement to the administration's policy in Vietnam, but said it opposed "unnecessarily risking a general war in Asia or a nuclear world war in the world."

In the war, swarms of American warplanes attacked the Phuoc Yen air base, North Vietnam's largest and best, for the second consecutive day and bombed the Paul Doumer bridge, Hanoi's only rail and road link with the port of Haiphong and the Chinese border.

A new translation by Robert Graves, the English poet, of the "Rubaiyat of Omar Khayyam," changes the wording of some of the most famous passages in poetry. "Here with a loaf of bread beneath the bough, A flask of wine, a book of verse—and thou" becomes "A gourd of red wine and a sheaf of poems—A bare subsistence, half a loaf, not more." Graves says the 12th century Persian poet was mistranslated by Edward Fitzgerald and made out to be an atheistic hedonist.

SPORTS

Small game season opens statewide on Saturday at 9 a.m. EDT, as hunters tramp the woods and field for pheasant, rabbit, turkey and quail. The extended season on turkey includes part of Warren County (see map on Page 11). Archery deer season in Pennsylvania closes tomorrow at sunset.

United States swimmers added three gold medals to America's total yesterday in the opening challenge to catch Russia in the Pre-Olympic games at Mexico City. Page 10.

Pennsylvania's Waynesburg College continued its drive for the number one ranking among the nation's small colleges by narrowing San Diego State's lead to just ten points on this week's AP poll. Both teams collected five first place votes. Page 10.

The Council of the NCAA reprimanded Nebraska for illegal cash payments to a prospective student-athlete yesterday and banned Mississippi State's basketball team from championship competition through 1969 for other infractions. Page 11.

CONDUCT ANNUAL INSPECTION OF DAM

The annual inspection of Kinzua Dam was made yesterday by personnel of the Corps of Engineers from the Pittsburgh, Cincinnati and Washington offices. Present for the inspection were (from the left): E. J. Selin, assistant chief of design branch; Jack Ewers, manager of the dam; Francis A. Duffy, project engineer, design branch (Pittsburgh); James J. Kenna, field photographer; Ralph A. Dickerman, supv. civil engineer;
Jim Baer, chief Project Operations (Pittsburgh); George E.
Hatch, office, chief of engineers (Washington); Robert Grayman, structural engineer (Cincinnati); Howard W. Goodman, office chief of engineers (Washington); F. S. Christman, assistant chief of operations (Cincinnati); A. J. Moors, chief, hydrology division (Cincinnati); Samuel B. Powell, office, chief of engineers (Washington); and William F. Usher, resident engineer (Pittsburgh). The inspection and review of design is intended to enable the corps to effect greater economies in future con-

Negroes Protest Move-In PITTSBURGH (AP)—Negro and white home owners asked city council yesterday to reverse a zoning ruling that would permit construction of a low-income housing project in their middle-income neighborhood.

The homeowners, mostly Negroes, are objecting to the planned influx of both low-income whites and Negroes. They say it will lower property values in their neighborhood of $18,000 to $28,000 homes.

Donald Pierucci, a private contractor, said the units on the competitive market would be in the $20,000 class and comparable to the houses now in the neighborhood.

Pierucci will build the homes and sell them to the city, which would rent them to low-income families.

Main Hanoi Bridge Knocked Out Again

SAIGON (AP)—U. S. Air Force pilots reported today they dropped two spans of Ha-noi's main rail and highway bridge in raids late yesterday and knocked the mile-long structure out of service once more.

In other strikes, Air Force jets again worked over the North Vietnamese MIG airfield at Phuc Yen, which had been hit Tuesday for the first time in the war.

The Doumer Bridge, 1.7 miles from the center, of Hanoi, had been hit only once before yesterday's raid. Air Force pilots reported knocking the bridge out of commission Aug. 11.

Subsequent aerial photos showed the one damaged span of the two-lane concrete bridge had been rebuilt.

There was no immediate U.S. report of plane losses in the raids. The North Vietnamese claimed 10 planes were shot down and an unspecified number of fliers were captured.

The North Vietnamese also charged that U.S. planes dropped "steel pellet bombs" on Hanoi's center and called it "a new, extremely brazen step" in escalation of the war.

They probably were referring to CBU bombs—Cluster Bomb Units—used mainly to knock out antiaircraft sites. The CBU is intended to smother the target by spewing hundreds of pellets over it, usually with fiery napalm added.

Squadrons of F 105 Thunder-chiefs returned to Phuc Yen, 18 miles Northwest of Hanoi, which was hit Tuesday for the first time after being removed from the Pentagon's restricted list. Spokesmen said they blasted fresh craters in the 9,170-foot runway and hit maintenance and support facilities that were passed up in the initial raid, the most massive of the war.

In the South, two American planes were lost in a collision at Saigon's Tan Son Nhut Airport. Witnesses said an F105

Poll Says Viet War Unpopular

PRINCETON, N. J. (AP)—
The number of Americans who are disillusioned about the Vietnam war has nearly doubled in the past two years, according to the Gallup Poll.

A poll taken of 1,585 persons, published yesterday, showed 46 per cent consider American involvement in Vietnam a mistake. The poll in August 1965 showed only 24 per cent thought American action was a mistake.

The latest poll was made in 325 separate localities and those interviewed represented a cross-section of the nation's population, George Gallup said.
Gallup's poll organization, the American Institute of Public Opinion, estimated the survey represented a shift in the sentiment of 25 million Americans.

The question asked in the latest survey and in eight others since August 1965 was: "In view of the developments since we entered the fighting in Vietnam, do you think the United States made a mistake sending troops to fight in Vietnam?"

In the latest survey, 46 per cent of those questioned said yes, 44 per cent said no, and 10 per cent had no opinion.

In February, 32 per cent said yes, 52 said no, and 16 per cent had no opinion.

New Hawkish Group Has Harry, Ike as Members

WASHINGTON—A new, non-partisan committee embracing former Presidents Harry S.
Truman and Dwight D. Eisenhower, several former cabinet officers, and high-ranking World War II commanders, gave a strong endorsement yesterday to the administration's policy in Vietnam.

The co-chairmen of the organization, which is called the commander of the 12th U.S.

Great Fires Sweep Ruins Of Refineries

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Great fires swept the ruins of two major Egyptian oil refineries Wednesday in the port of Suez a day after Israeli artillery blasted them to rubble. In New York, the U.N. Security Council demanded an end to the fighting in the Suez Canal area.

The Security Council, meeting urgently to deal with the new outbreak of fighting in the Middle East, unanimously adopted a compromise resolution condemning violations of the cease-fire along the Suez Canal, where the United Nations halted fighting in the June war.

Put forward by nonpermanent members of the council, the resolution avoided the Soviet demand for condemnation of Israel but expressed regret over the casualties and property damage resulting from cease-fire violations.

A pall of smoke hung high over the desolate and silent port of Suez at the southern end of the canal.

Correspondents brought from Cairo to Suez said an Israeli jet swept low over the port and fired machine guns at Egyptians fighting the refinery fires.

Israeli officers across the Suez Canal denied this, saying Egyptian anti-aircraft gunners opened fire on one of their own Soviet-built Sukhoi SU7 jets as it flew low over the refineries.

However, a U.N. observation post in the area reported an Israeli plane flew low over the sector and that Israeli later complained Egyptian anti-aircraft guns fired on one of its aircraft near Port Taufiq south of Suez.

Foreign correspondents driving from Cairo by bus reported they could see the glow of fires in Suez when they were still 40 miles away.

When they arrived, they found 300 men battling the blaze in the refinery complex. Some flames leaped as high as nearly four-story apartment houses. The Egyptians were trying to localize the fires to stop them from reaching other storage tanks.
But the storage tanks were still going up in flames.

Gov. Hamid Mahmoud of Suez told the reporters the big Nasr —Victory—refinery complex was almost completely destroyed while its twin refinery, the Suez, was half flattened.

The two refineries produce nearly three-fourths of Egyptian petroleum products. The pipeline terminal at Port Taufiq south of Suez also was ablaze. It normally pumps about five million tons from the refineries to Cairo each year.

Mahmoud said the shelling extended to houses, schools and factories. The Information Department in Cairo said eight civilians were killed and 60 wounded. Military casualties were given as eight killed and 32 wounded.

Normally bustling Suez was gloomy and silent as reporters toured the empty streets. Only the occasional explosions from oil storage tanks broke the silence.

Only about 30,000 of Suez's
250,000 population remained.
The rest had headed to towns in

Ratify Ford Contract

DETROIT (AP)—Ford workers have ratified by a substantial margin a new three-year national contract between the United Auto Workers Union and the company, the union announced last night.

The union said the new contract received the approval of 90 per cent of Ford production workers and 70 per cent of skilled tradesmen.

A statement issued from UAW international headquarters in Detroit said the company had been notified of the approval by Ford workers at 10 p.m.

It added: "Local unions having unresolved local issues have been instructed to devote full time to reaching agreement of these issues and the union has pledged its full cooperation in assisting these unions in efforts to achieve a satisfactory resolution of local problems."

UAW President Walter Reuther said Ford workers should begin returning to their jobs Thursday and Friday, pending settlement of local agreements to supplement the national contract.

Area Veterans Get Increased Benefits

BY HUGH FLEMING
TMO Washington

WASHINGTON—Vietnamera and older veterans in Pennsylvania's 23rd Congressional District, which includes Warren County will receive an increase of $684,020 in benefits from the Veteran's Administration during the next twelve months.

The added payments go to veterans and their widows and children in various benefits provided by the Veterans Pension and Readjustment Assistance act of 1967 recently enacted by Congress.

Major provision of the new GI Bill is the cost of living pension increase. For an estimated 4,280 veterans, this will mean nearly $241,060 in added benefits.

There is an additional readjustment assistance for approximately 156 eligible veterans which will cost $36,360 with the increase in educational and training benefits 1,576 eligible veterans and dependents totaling approximately $406,600 in the first year of operation.

The total increase in benefits to veterans in the state of Pennsylvania is $17,971,830 and for the country as a whole $282,449,000.

Other provisions of the law will:
Create a new "housebound" rate of $100 a month, in lieu of basic pension rate, for certain veterans.

Establish a new monthly allowance of $50 if they need regular aid and attendance.

Presume permanent and total disability for veterans at age 65.

Presume the need of regular aid and attendance for pensions in nursing homes.

The act also provides the range of benefits for veterans on August 5, 1964, which have previously been authorized for veterans of the Korean conflict.

Nabs Hippies Of Hog Island

SUWANNEE, Fla. (AP)—Four of the six hippies of Hog Island were arrested in Suwannee yesterday by a sheriff who took moral exception to their self-description: "We're a group of people living closer than brothers and sisters."

It was the "sisters" that bothered Levy County Sheriff Pat Hartley. "I don't think it's morally right—them living like that," he said.

The objects of the sheriff's indignation and arrest warrants were four bearded young men and two "chicks" who had been camping on Hog Island in the Suwannee River for about six weeks.

the Nile delta and upper Egypt. Mahmoud said the Israelis were obviously retaliating for the sinking of the destroyer Elath by Egyptian missiles Saturday. He said they opened unprovoked heavy fire on the oil complex.

The Israelis, however, said their artillery and mortars began firing at the refineries only after the Egyptians had begun an artillery barrage from the refinery area.

Israel was delighted that the United States had decided to resume some arms shipments, but the reaction in Cairo was one of extreme resentment.

Mohammed Hassan El-Zayat, chairman of Egypt's Information Department, told reporters the U.S. government plans "to put arms in the hands of Israeli aggressors who shelled our schools and factories and killed our children."

While the United States said nothing about it, Zayat asserted the U.S. government plans to ship 60 supersonic fighter planes to Israel. Washington officials said some but not all of 36 Skyhawk A4 fighter-bombers will be sent to Israel this year. The planes were on order before the June war.

Cairo's semi-official newspaper Al-Ahram reported that several units of the Soviet fleet will arrive at Port Said at the northern end of the canal Thursday for a "friendly visit."

Soviet warships, part of the fleet believed roaming the eastern Mediterranean, called at Port Said at the height of Israeli-Egyptian fighting along the canal earlier this year as a show of solidarity with Egypt.

Investigate

Three Mishaps

Albert N. Schneider Jr., 17, RD 1, Grand Valley, was listed in fair condition at Titusville Hospital following an automobile accident yesterday on Route 61001 in Southwest Twp., 5 1/2 miles east of Titusville in which police said the driver's 1966 Chevrolet Coup was totaled.

The mishap was one of three investigated by state police in early afternoon on the area's wet highways.

Schneider lost control of his car and went off the road on the left side, bounced off a utility pole, and the vehicle rolled over three times, according to officer Mike Farnstrom who investigated at 12:30 p.m. At the same time on Route 6 in Conewango Twp., one mile west of Warren, police said, Robert C. Woodrick, 35, 409 Gaywood Circle, Pittsburgh, skidded into the back of a car driven by Josephine Vanhorn, 28, 2866 Penna. ave. W., as the latter put on her brakes and swerved left to miss hitting a car which had stopped in front of her for a woman pedestrian crossing the road.

Damages were set at $50 to the Vanhorn vehicle and $350 to the Woodrick automobile. Mrs. Vanhorn's daughter, Marie, age 4, a passenger in her mother's car, was taken to Warren General Hospital for a checkup.

In the other accident, also involving only one car, police said Kenneth E. Seamon, 27, RD 1, Knox, Pa., driving a tractor-trailer, applied his brakes too soon in stopping for another car turning right and the vehicle jackknifed with the cab striking the trailer.

The mishap occurred at 1:55 p.m. on Route 6 in Mead Twp. two miles east of Warren. Damage was listed at $150.

Both candidates will be on hand to meet the voters, discuss the issues and answer questions.

Stopgap Resolution On Spending Passed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate voted yesterday stopgap spending authority for federal agencies whose budgets are still tied up in Congress, but all efforts to tie the spending cut riders to the resolution were beaten.

The stopgap resolution, passed 59 to 26, was sent to a conference with the House in face of predictions the House would balk at going along with the Senate in merely extending the spending authority to Nov. 15.

The House, in passing the resolution last week, had hung on a directive to President Johnson to shrink spending by $6 billion to $3 billion in his budget for the current fiscal year that began July 1.

Meanwhile, there were these other developments on Capitol Hill in the federal financial picture:

—House-Senate conferees agreed on a compromise $4.58 billion bill to finance space activities. But they scrubbed funds earmarked for two research projects—the Voyager long-range spacecraft project and the second stage of the Nerva nuclear rocket. The total is $400 million less than Johnson asked.

A second-try compromise was worked out to provide $10 million extra for the annual rental subsidy for housing for low-income people. The House had turned down both the $40 million asked by Johnson and approved by the Senate as well as $10 million recommended by its Appropriations Committee.

—Senate-House conferees who agreed on the new rent subsidy compromise also tried a new $312 million figure for the Model Cities program in comparison to the $237 million voted by the House and $537 million voted by the Senate.

The Model Cities and rent supplementals increases would push the independent offices bill to $10.1 billion—some $681 million below the budget request.

The House, in a sudden burst of speed to complete all money measures quickly, cleared by voice vote two more annual appropriation bills: A $2.17 billion measure to finance the State, Justice and Commerce Departments and some minor agencies, and a $4.7 billion measure for the sprawling public works program, mainly those of the Army Corps of Engineers.

The State, Justice and Commerce Department bill is expected to be accepted by the Senate without much controversy. This compromise total is $178.7 million less than Johnson requested but $32.4 million more than provided last year.

The public works bill could hit a snag in the Senate over House rejection of additional money for waste-treatment grants and for a hydro-electric project in Maine.

The Senate went along with its Appropriations Committee 50 to 34 in wiping from the spending stopgap measure the House directive to the President to slice spending by $6 billion to $8 billion.

Denmark Sees Protectionist Chain Reaction

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Trade restricting legislation urged by "protectionist" interests in the United States could set off a chain reaction of trade barriers affecting many nations, a Danish official predicted yesterday.

"If the protectionists in this country should have their will, it may upset all that has been accomplished by the Kennedy Round and earlier tariff conferences," said Torben Ronne, Denmark's ambassador to the United States.

In a prepared address marking the start of a Danish festival here, Ronne said, "my experience and common sense tell me that such broad unilateral protectionist action by the United States would trigger off a chain reaction first of compensatory and perhaps later of protectionist measures in other countries."

Ronne said foreign trade and "economic viability" are essential to the development of Denmark and other trading nations.

CERTIFICATES AWARDED

Cancer Unit Thanks Workers

BY LENORE MCINTYRE

The Warren County unit, American Cancer Society, said "thank you" last night to the many volunteer workers throughout the borough and county whose efforts in the Cancer Crusade last spring resulted in contributions of $21,206.46. The quota set for the county by the Pennsylvania Division was $18,000.

Jack Donaldson, president of the Warren County unit, greeted workers in the gracious setting of Northwest Savings & Loan's hospitality room. Warren High School Key Club and Future Nurses of America were presented with framed certificates of appreciation in recognition of the tag days conducted by the young people which netted $621.37.

Certificates also were awarded to the following chairmen whose wards or branches made their 1967 quota: county, Mrs. Robert E. Sweetland, Branch 2; Mrs. George O'Dea, Branch 5;

Mrs. Jerry Dorrian, Branch 8; Mrs. Kay Burleigh, Branch 11; Mrs. Allen Irvine, Branch 13; Mrs. Lowell Fargo, Branch 14; Mrs. Clinton Johnson, Branch 17; Warren borough, Mrs. Robert Knapp, Ward 1; Mrs. William Oelslager, Ward 6; and Mrs. James Bartholomew, Ward 8. Ward and county branch chairmen who exceeded their 1966 quota, in addition to meeting the 1967 quota, received certificates and special gifts. They were: Mrs. Richard Peters, Branch 1; Mrs. Clifford Storms, Branch 3; Mrs. Richard Schmitt, Branch 4; Mrs. Ardella Pearson, Branch 6; Mrs. James Stevenson, Branch 7; Mrs. Albert

Eagles Meet

Members of the Fraternal Order of Eagles will meet in the club rooms at 7:30 tonight, and go in a body to pay last respects to their deceased brother Merritt Babcock, 33, RD 2, Russell (Lander), who died Tuesday.

Sidon, Branch 9; Mrs. Lenore McIntyre, Branch 10; Mrs. Ralph Santo, Branch 12; Mrs. William Donaldson, Branch 15; Mr. Mark Summerson, Branch 16; Mrs. Paul Myers, Ward 5; Mrs. Richard Danielson, Ward 7; and Mrs. Robert Biltz, Ward 10; Mrs. Walter Mathyer, Ward 9.

Special divisions which made the quota also received recognition. These were: special gifts, A.L. Rasmussen; clubs and organizations, Mrs. Walter Bergler; independent business, Henry Blick Jr.; trades and industries, Edward Ryberg; professional, Dr. Richard Peters.

President Donaldson presented gifts to Jack McCool, who served as county residential chairman; Mrs. Harry Conarro, Jr., and Mrs. Thomas Barrott, borough residential chairmen.

Refreshments were prepared and served by Mrs. Howard Whitmore, Mrs. William Rea, Mrs. Frank Sterley and Mrs.

Richard Hildum, Evelyn Boyd and Mrs. James Stevenson presided at the tea and coffee services. Miss Betty Lyle was in charge of table appointments.

The recognition meeting is regarded by the cancer unit as a vital and worthwhile gesture for without the help of volunteer workers, the programs of research, education and service could not be carried on. To those workers who were unable to attend last night's meeting, the Warren County unit, American Cancer Society, extends sincere appreciation.

Most Steel Haulers Back at Work

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The leader of the independent steel haulers, who accused some trucking companies of violating a strike-ending agreement by refusing to rehire drivers, said yesterday he has received assurances from the Teamsters Union that all men will be taken back.

"We're getting most of them back to work," said William Kusley, the Gary, Ind., trucker who led a bitter nine-week strike of 10,000 to 20,000 haulers. He threatened Tuesday a resumption of the strike if any of the drivers were not rehired. The strike leader had said he was one of 50 drivers refused their jobs by about a dozen trucking firms in four states. He didn't say whether he had his job back.

Kusley said progress was being made, but declined comment yesterday on what action would be taken if an impasse developed. He still insisted that all strikers be rehired. Most of the drivers returned to work Tuesday after approving a settlement giving them pay for detention time at steel mills, a rate increase and machinery for grievance procedures with the Teamsters. The majority of the haulers are union members.

AWARDED PLAQUES

Two Warren Area High School clubs Wednesday were awarded with plaques for their efforts conducting Tag Days for the Warren Cancer Society. Awards were presented to the Key Club and the Future Nurses Association at a meeting at Northwest Savings and Loan. Represent-

Silence is Golden

There is an old saying: Silence is golden. Warren Countians should know this is true. This psychology has put Commissioner Blain Mead in office for several terms.

Year after year newspaper headlines and radio newscasts carry reports of the story "Mead votes 'no', two other commissioners vote 'yes'."

This is only disturbing when the "nay" is against progressive thinking and is detrimental to the welfare of Warren County. But this "nay" bit is echoed so often it is almost sickening. And it leads us to believe the "nay" vote cast is automatically tossed out of a computer — not out of the mouth of the man who once stood as tall as the vote of the people who elected him.

Mr. Mead — generally — objects to progressive projects with the indication it is costing the taxpayers money. Period.

This may be true. And we feel the taxpayers money should be protected and put to the best use.

But Mr. Mead's attitude, we feel, has forced such an unhealthy feeling among the governing commissioners that they either refuse to sit down and analyze the situation or just vote their own way. By this we mean, as an example:

Should Warren County, in order to provide industry with an outlet for shipment of products and transportation of personnel, better airport facilities such as the joint program with Bradford - McKean Airport? Especially when there is — from an economic standpoint — no future in view for an adequate local airport. This accommodation also applies to local individuals.

Mr. Mead said "no, no, no." Fortunately the move carried, although since Commissioners D.H. Lay and Lewis L. Crippen were defeated in the primary election, they too have been somewhat lackadaisical.

And so it has been with many other projects. End of example.

But — to us, anyway — do we ever report "Warren County's three commissioners sat down and said unanimously we should do this for the welfare of the county. Now let's see where we can cut off a couple of dollars so we can still keep from raising taxes if necessary?" No! But election time is here. The "quiet hour". No bickering in the commissioners' meetings any more. In fact, Mr. Mead at a recent meeting cast a "yes" vote for unanimous endorsement of the Warren by-pass. Of course, at a public hearing in Warren Tuesday even the opponents were in favor of a by-pass, although they had individual beefs.

But all is still quiet! Mr. Mead, we were informed, accepted the invitation of the Warren County Young Republicans to appear with the other two Republican candidates — Dr. David Rice and James Marshall — Tuesday night to answer questions at a public meeting.

He failed to make an appearance. This space has asked him — as the other candidates — to state their views. He has not responded.

We do not feel this is fair to the voters. If a candidate can afford to pound the streets, knock on doors pass out cigars and shake hands he should be able to publicly state his position on such issues as planning, zoning, roads, airports, recreation, homes for neglected children, facilities for the elderly.

But still no word from Mr. Mead. And this appears to be his answer to success every election.

We can well understand why the older, retired voter is against further taxation. He — especially if a property owner who has spent his best years to obtain what he has today — can look joyfully upon the officeholder who says "no" because it may cost money.

But there are other factors to think about.

Men and women in office can help us progress and still be conservative.

Let us think of the future of the great "Kinzua Country," of our children and their children.

Let us weigh the issue before all the candidates, whether Republican or Democrat.

And let us be heard at the polls come election day — Tuesday, November 7.

ART BUCHWALD

Cruising With the Governors

WASHINGTON—I had the good fortune to be one of the survivors of the governors cruise to the Virgin Islands on the USS Independence last week, and it was truly a memorable experience. It isn't every day that a reporter has a chance to get seasick with 45 governors of the United States.

The Three Rs were on board, Rockefeller, Reagan and Romney, and all of us naturally were concerned with their presidential plans. For three days all I heard was, "It's Rocky, it's Rocky." I didn't realize until I got off that they were talking about the ship and not the governor.

Gov. George Romney still seemed to be suffering from the effects of his brainwashing in Vietnam, because I asked him one morning, "Governor, how are you enjoying the cruise?" and he said, "What cruise?"

Gov. Nelson Rockefeller and Ronald Reagan got the most attention. When Gov. Rockefeller arrived at the pier with Happy, he was besieged by newspapermen, television cameras and radio microphones. Gov. Lester Maddox turned to a friend and said, "You see what happens when you have a million dollars?"

The cruise was twice blessed because, besides Gov. Rockefeller, we also had Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller on board. Lawrence Rockefeller, who owns large chunks of the Virgin Islands, was supposed to come along, but Henry Diamond, who works for him, explained, "Because of the state they have in them, Internal Revenue Service won't allow more than two Rockefeller on any one ship at the same time."

From President Johnson's point of view, there has been nothing like this cruise since the Andrea Doria.

The main problem was communications, and you were never sure when someone sent you a telegram if you would be the first person to read it. The most dramatic example of this was when Marvin Watson of the White House sent a radiogram to former Gov. Price Daniel on board the ship, suggesting how to twist Republican arms to get through a resolution supporting President Johnson in Vietnam. The radiogram was "accidentally" delivered to Gov. Reagan because his name sounds so much like Daniel. Gov. Reagan started reading the telegram and then suddenly realized it wasn't for him. So he did the only honorable thing and had it Xeroxed and distributed to the press.

The Democrats were rather embittered by this and accused Reagan of violating the law as well as reading somebody else's mail. But the White House didn't see it that way. President Johnson sent Daniel another wire which said, "Who the hell killed the albatross?"

To safeguard future communications between the White House and the Independence, Watson had to swim out to the ship every day and deliver them by hand.

Despite the instructions, the President didn't get as much support from the governors as he hoped. Every time the Democratic governors would propose a resolution supporting President Johnson, the Republican governors would hold a lifeboat drill. Except, of course, for Gov. Reagan, who had moved his deck chair up into the radio shack.

Wanted: Some Protection

A most enterprising reporter for The Miami Herald has filed a story on the extraordinary pressures being put on Congress to back away from tariff reform, the focus of which is that the typical senator is all for low tariffs except for that wee little industry which simply has to have protection, and is incidentally located in his home state.

There isn't any party line in the matter, Senator Frank Carlson of Kansas, for instance, a doughty Republican, is a great advocate of the Kennedy Round, which is the next scheduled series of mutual tariff reductions — "We can't live in the world by ourselves," he has said. "I'm for more trade."

Even so, the same Senator Carlson is a co-sponsor of bills to restrict imports on two items that compete with Kansas products: oil and beef.

Senator Stephen M. Young is the liberal Democrat from Ohio, perhaps the biggest noisemaker in Ohio history, who is so liberal most of the time he can't stand it. Needless to say he is for free trade. Except steel. "Steel is an important factor in Ohio," says an aide for Senator Young; almost as important as votes.

Senator George A. Smathers of Florida is a member of the Finance Committee and he has spoken out vigorously against new trade barriers, and one's heart, like Diogenes', almost stops; until one finds that Senator Smathers is backing a bill which would prohibit trade negotiations on farm products produced with migrant labor, i.e., in competition with Florida.

There are a couple of exceptions, and one of them is Senator Jacob K. Javits who at last incarnates the principled man — he has come out against trade restrictions, on its and or butts. However, his selflessness is neatly undercut by Mr. Philip Meyer who observes: "He's not being particularly altruistic about it. Important quotas would balance 'seriously' undermine the foundation of my own state of New York's welfare and economy," as Javits said last week — New York exports $1.5 billion in manufactured goods and $75 million in agricultural goods each year.

"If other countries erected retaliatory trade barriers," — which of course they would do — "New Yorkers would be paying for the increased protection of other industries," Javits said.

Now of course, it is no news when politicians desert principle in order to appease their constituents. Senator William Fulbright, who has been pretty good on free trade, isn't getting much pressure from home. One would suppose that otherwise he would switch. He has in the past shown much more concern for clean elections in South Vietnam, than in Arkansas. Back when John F. Kennedy, author of the Kennedy Round now being disputed, was Senator John F. Kennedy, running for President of the United States, he gave a speech in New Hampshire which had no textual mention in it of the depressed state of the local cobbler industry. Observing that he was getting nowhere by his exalted rhetoric on the missile gap and the failure of America to move again, he suddenly extemporized a demand that the shoe industry "be protected," and he got, in return for turning aside his profile from courage, a howling ovation.

What is most needed is a program of general education about the strategic myopia of high tariffs. The theory of the thing isn't hard to grasp (though there are those who have not grasped it). You cannot sell abroad, which we are urgently anxious to do, without buying abroad. You hardly penalize an American consumer by permitting him to purchase from abroad goods that are produced by labor that sells its time, i.e., to American consumers, at half the cost of local labor. The tricky part of it all is that the competition, which ideally is made possible by the high capital investment in the American economic machine, is as a practical matter a difficult thing to maintain as the overhead of business life mounts for reasons primarily political, rather than economic; as for instance by the heavy tax load American business has to bear, and the high cost of labor induced by the monopoly labor unions — and, not least, by the climate of official terrorism against investments abroad. All of this should be thrashed out. But the pure heart must oppose lifting our tariff barriers, which the great conservative economist Colin Clark of Oxford has rightly called the greatest single act of misanthropy a nation is capable of.

Subsequently Pennsylvania's present "commissioner" was named by Mr. Lawrence—one Harry H. Brainerd—who was carried over by Republican Governor Scranton and retained, so far at least, by incumbent Republican Governor Shafer.

The title of "commissioner" illustrates the importance the administrations have attached to the post—the emphasis placed on highway safety in the Keystone State in a determined effort to cut down Pennsylvania's slaughter.

The advent of Mr. Brainerd, plus the institution of almost innumerable "highway safety" programs was supposed to provide the answer to Pennsylvania's traffic safety woes.

The record doesn't seem too impressive along this line however notwithstanding the institution of a greatly publicized new driver suspension schedule in 1963, the advent of legalization of use of radar to trap speedsters, and more recently the loudly heralded "point system" of driver license suspension.

Great show-off times expensive show—has been placed on the functions of Pennsylvania's traffic safety programs, efforts, reams of publicity and what-not.

The end results however can hardly be considered outstanding by any stretch of the imagination—not when motorists and pedestrians are being slaughtered at the rate they are today.

It seems that over the years whenever there has been a slight dip in the number of fatalities in any given period, the publicity horns immediately blow pointing to the dip resulting from Pennsylvania's exemplary program.

A look at the overall picture however oftentimes paints a somewhat different picture. The other day for example, highway safety expert Brainerd gave the count for the first nine months of 1967, noting at the time:

DREW PEARSON

Prove Errors Can Be Overcome

WASHINGTON—Three important foreign visitors have been in Washington this week and last. They and their countries can teach the United States some lessons regarding peace.

They are: GUSTAVO DIAZ ORDAZ, president of Mexico, a country which occupies the same relation to the United States that Vietnam occupies to China.

PRIME MINISTER LEE KUAN YEW of Singapore, a city guarding the gateway between East and West Asia, in which live more than one million Chinese.

PRINCE SOUVANNA PHOU-MA of Laos, a country which has actually permitted the United States to bomb its borders in order to stop the inflow of enemy munitions.

Significance behind the visits of all three is that with either them or their countries the United States has made serious mistakes. Yet we have apologized for those mistakes and the admission of error has paid off. This precedent might pay dividends regarding another serious mistake we have made in Vietnam.

Our mistake with Mexico dates back 53 years to the bombardment of Vera Cruz and Tampico in 1914. The U.S. Navy hauled out its big guns and shattered these defenseless Mexican cities in the same way we are shattering the cities of North Vietnam today. We thought we had a justifiable grudge. We didn't, and finally came to realize our mistake.

Lyndon Johnson, as a young Congressman, later as Senator, Vice President and President, has helped erase the wounds of those blunders. He helped elect the first Spanish-American to the U.S. Congress, was the first President whom a Mexican president has ever visited on a Texas ranch. For Texas, for many years, was a bad name in Mexico.

Now it isn't, thanks in part to Lyndon Johnson and to previous American Presidents who understood that Mexico, like North Vietnam, doesn't want to be invaded by a powerful northern neighbor, yet is anxious for friendly relations with that neighbor.

Visitor No. 2 arrived early last week after undergoing one of the most unique experiences in American history. Lee Kuan Yew, prime minister of Singapore, had been offered a $3,300,000 bribe by the United States, refused it, and subsequently received an official apology.

It was in January 1960 that our Central Intelligence offered Lee $3,300,000 to release a CIA agent arrested in Singapore for attempting to buy intelligence information.

This was in the closing days of the Eisenhower administration, shortly before Allen Dulles sent the U-2 spy plane over Russia just before Eisenhower was scheduled to sit down with Khrushchev to improve USA-USSR relations.

Later, during the early part of the Kennedy administration, Secretary of State Rusk wrote Prime Minister Lee an official letter of apology.

Lee accepted the apology, forgave the mistake, and last week was big enough to come for a warm and pleasant visit to the country which once insulted him. He has been a good friend of the United States.

Records of any property you receive as a gift should also be kept until three years after the due date for the return covering the year in which you dispose of the gift. Moreover, you must be able to demonstrate by actual records the fair market value of the property at the time the gift was made to you, plus the amount of any gift tax paid at that time.

4) In the case of an inheritance, keep a record of the fair market value of inherited property at the date of death of the person leaving the property to you, until the usual three-year statute of limitations expires for the year in which you dispose of the inherited property.

5) If you make a loan to somebody, keep a record of the loan until it is actually paid. In the event the loan goes bad, you will then be able to deduct the bad debt from your income tax.

6) If there is any possibility that you have understated your reported gross income by 25 percent or more, the statute of limitations is six years from the due date of the return for the year in which you understated your income.

Of course, all the rules, and rules of thumb, are off if there is evidence of fraud (willful evasion of taxes) or if you fail to file a return you should have filed. For these, there is no statute of limitations as far as the tax collector or courts are concerned.

He had no false humility, he said. And few illusions either. It sounded corny, he said, but he didn't want to "be" somebody but to "do something." Maybe he had a better perspective on himself now. He thought he was a better judge of people and he was certainly more tolerant of dissent. If the country was looking for somebody who thought he knew any easy answers to our problems, he wasn't the man. He was fatalistic about the whole thing, and he wasn't going to trim or change his positions in order to get the nomination.

He was being advised, he said, by many friends and supporters to "take a more dovish position" on Vietnam to meet the mood of the moment but he wasn't going to do it. He was telling him he looked too "fierce" on television and should go on more "light shows and smile more."

Nixon said he was probably regarded as being on "the right" on civil rights and to the right of center in dealing with the Communists. He wasn't saying "never" to trade with the Soviet Union "but whether and how." He thought of himself, he said, as being in "the center" of the domestic and foreign struggles, where most Americans were, and he believed he could mobilize the talents of the country and "make the center exciting."

He would not say that the prospect of a long campaign through the primaries and the convention and thereafter was the sort of thing a family dreamed about, but "the girls are reconciled," he said, being old enough now not to commit his wife.

Nor would he commit himself on whom he would support for the nomination if he didn't get it. Not even "off the record" — thereby proving that his new philosophy has not overwhelmed his political experience. "We'll see," he said, "I'll be tough. In the primaries a better average won't be enough, I will have to have a fielder's average, and if I don't get it, I'll get out right away. I'm not going to be a spoiler."

JAMES RESTON

What Makes Him Run Again

(c) N. Y. Times News Service NEW YORK — Richard Nixon is starting back on the political trail this week after a period of mourning for the death of his mother, and he talks about his past and future now quite objectively — almost as if he were discussing the prospects of some other presidential candidate.

Middle age seems to have been good to him. He has put on a little girth at 54 but taken on a good deal more philosophy. He is surrounded in his 24th floor office at 20 Broad street by all the mementos of his travels and campaigns: behind his desk, photographs of the Queen of England, Haile Selassie, the Shah of Iran, Jawaharlal Nehru, and many other world figures; behind his couch, pictures of Presidents Eisenhower and Hoover; on the walls, screens and spears from the Orient.

Why start on this long and agonizing journey again? Why do men do it? He begins talking about Clay and Bryan and Robert Taft, as if identifying himself with the disappointed losers of the past. Then he says if he does run it won't be because the outlook is pleasant.

The campaign of '68 will not be like '64 when Goldwater could relax knowing he had little chance, or even like '60 when the President was not on the ballot. The next four years will be the most difficult since the first Lincoln administration: a time of convulsive transition, of unconventional danger at home and even of possible explosion abroad.

He didn't minimize the terrible problems of Roosevelt in the last war or Truman after the war, but between now and 1973 there would be great dangers with the Russians in the Middle East; China would then have a substantial nuclear capacity, and there would be intractable problems with a disunited Europe and all the struggling poor nations of Asia, Africa and Latin America.

He seemed happier now than when he was in Washington, so what was the compulsion to take all this on? He said he wasn't sure. It wasn't because he was at ease as a "back slapper." He came to New York after his defeat in the governor's race in 1962 convinced he had run his last race. He certainly didn't feel he was the only man available who could do the job. In fact, he doubted that any man was up to it. But events after '62 had taken an astonishing turn: the death of Kennedy, the war in Vietnam, the vicious divisions within the Republican party after the defeat of '64, and now the uncertainty within the party of who should lead next year.

He had no false humility, he said. And few illusions either. It sounded corny, he said, but he didn't want to "be" somebody but to "do something."

Maybe he had a better perspective on himself now. He thought he was a better judge of people and he was certainly more tolerant of dissent. Keeping Tax Records

If you ask the Internal Revenue Service how long you should keep various records for tax purposes, here is the answer you will get: "as long as their contents may become material in the administration of any internal revenue law."

Period. Does this mouthful of mush translate into "You must keep piles of tax records indefinitely?"

Generally no, says the IRS. But there are important exceptions. The question is of vital importance to tens of millions of taxpayers as we approach the end of the 1967 tax year. Although there are no hard rules, there are rules of thumb which, for all practical purposes, apply to the majority of ordinary taxpayers. Here they are:

1) Records of "transactions affecting the basis of an asset" should be kept until the expiration of the three-year statute of limitations for the tax year in which the asset was disposed of. For example: if you sell a house and postpone paying the capital gains tax on the profits by buying a new house within a year of the date on which you sell your old house, you must keep full records for BOTH HOUSES until three years after the due date for the tax return for the year in which you sell the new house. These records should include the original purchase price of each house, legal fees, title insurance, closing costs, etc., the dates on which each house was acquired and sold; records of sale prices and other selling costs of each house; records of major improvements or additions you made to each house over the years.

2) Records of securities you buy should be kept until three years after the due date for the tax return covering the year in which you ultimately sell the securities. These include: purchase price, commissions, date of purchase, number of shares and records of any stock splits, swaps and dividends. When you sell securities, make sure you know exactly which batch you are selling and have your broker make a note of this on the statement of the sale.

But here are examples of records

The Saga of Highway Safety

HARRISBURG—The saga of highway safety (or lack of it) in Pennsylvania over the years unquestionably has been as frustrating as it has been irritating.

The fact remains that within the space of the past decade highway safety has been the sounding board of governors and their administrations as never before in the history of the state.

During the tenure of the late Governor (1959-62) highway safety with its ramifications became a hall-mark of Mr. Lawrence's gubernatorial efforts.

In fact it was during this tenure that the first "Commissioner of Traffic Safety" was named—in March of 1960 when O. D. "Mike" Shipley was named to the post.

Subsequently Pennsylvania's present "commissioner" was named by Mr. Lawrence—one Harry H. Brainerd—who was carried over by Republican Governor Scranton and retained, so far at least, by incumbent Republican Governor Shafer.

The title of "commissioner" illustrates the importance the administrations have attached to the post—the emphasis placed on highway safety in the Keystone State in a determined effort to cut down Pennsylvania's slaughter.

The advent of Mr. Brainerd, plus the institution of almost innumerable "highway safety" programs was supposed to provide the answer to Pennsylvania's traffic safety woes.

The record doesn't seem too impressive along this line however notwithstanding the institution of a greatly publicized new driver suspension schedule in 1963, the advent of legalization of use of radar to trap speedsters, and more recently the loudly heralded "point system" of driver license suspension.

Great show-off times expensive show—has been placed on the functions of Pennsylvania's traffic safety programs, efforts, reams of publicity and what-not.

The end results however can hardly be considered outstanding by any stretch of the imagination—not when motorists and pedestrians are being slaughtered at the rate they are today.

It seems that over the years whenever there has been a slight dip in the number of fatalities in any given period, the publicity horns immediately blow pointing to the dip resulting from Pennsylvania's exemplary program.

A look at the overall picture however oftentimes paints a somewhat different picture. The other day for example, highway safety expert Brainerd gave the count for the first nine months of 1967, noting at the time:

Where then are all the "results" of this much talked about "highway safety" program? The "experts" of course have alibis and explanations galore (which is one reason they are "experts") but the flat facts are hard to dispute, reams of favorable publicity notwithstanding.

Or, to pick up again the (inadvertent?) quote of Commissioner Brainerd:

"Unless these trends are reversed, Pennsylvania will wind up 1967 with one of the most tragic records in recent years."

Perhaps the safety program of "recent years" needs some might drastic changes—changes that will produce results, not just words!

'LSD' Murder Verdict: Insanity

NEW YORK (AP) — Stephen Kessler was acquitted by reason of insanity last night in the murder of his mother-in-law, a deed he attributed to an LSD trip into the uncharted world of hallucination.

It was believed to be one of the first homicide cases to involve the substance that has become a familiar symbol of the drug-oriented hippie culture in the United States.

A State Supreme Court jury of 11 men and one woman three times reported itself hopelessly deadlocked during its 12 hours of actual deliberations. Each time the court sent the panel back to try again.

The verdict came at 6:20 p.m.

Kessler burst into tears at the acquittal, flung his eyeglasses on the defense table, covered his face with his hands and cried: "I still say I don't know what happened. I had no reason to kill her. I loved her."

Justice Edward Thompson directed after the verdict: "I order the defendant to be committed to the custody of the commissioner of mental hygiene to be placed in an appropriate institution in the State Department of Mental Hygiene or the State Department of Correction."

Kessler could gain his freedom by proving that his insanity was temporary and that he now is of sound mind.

Rate of Interest Hits 46-Year High

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
WASHINGTON — The Treasury offered yesterday to pay the highest interest rate in 46 years—.54 per cent—in order to sell a seven-year note to help cover the big deficit in the budget.

The offer of $1.5 billion of the new notes was accompanied by an offer of $10.7 billion of 15-month notes paying 5% per cent interest.

The combined sale of $12.2 billion will be used to pay off $10.2 billion of maturing securities and raise $2 billion cash to meet the Treasury's needs.

The last time a Treasury issue carried a rate of interest as high as 5 1/4 per cent was in offering of $311 million in June, 1921.

The reason for the high rate was recent developments in the money markets, where rates have been steadily rising.

Yesterday's issue will be sold Monday, with payment due Nov. 15.

Individuals and financial institutions will put in subscriptions, which are certain to exceed to $12.2 billion offering. The Treasury will then "allot" subscriptions according to the amount of the excess.

An individual can put in a subscription of at least $1,000 through his bank or broker. These small subscriptions are usually allotted in full.

An individual can also wait until the issue has been sold and then purchase the new securities in the market.

LBJ Blasts Talk Of 'Yellow Peril'

By TOM SEPPY
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson, branding as absurd talk that the United States fears a "Yellow Peril" in Asia, said yesterday freedom cannot be reserved for white Americans and Europeans.

"We have utterly repudiated the racist nonsense of an earlier era," Johnson said. "Indeed, we have made a commitment in Asia because we do believe that no men, whatever the pigmentation of their skins, should be delivered over to totalitarianism."

"Race has no place in our purpose."

Johnson made his remarks at the presentation of a Medal of Honor—the nation's highest military award—to Marine Maj. Howard V. Lee of New York City and Dumfries, Va. It was the 21st Medal of Honor to be given for actions in the Vietnam war.

Some commentators and members of Congress accused Secretary of State Dean Rusk of raising the "Yellow Peril" threat at an Oct. 12 news conference in which he spoke of the danger of the great population masses of Communist China armed with nuclear weapons.

Johnson said: "There has been some furor in the past week or so about the 'Yellow Peril.' Let me take just a moment to point out the absurdity of this charge."

"We fought side by side with Asians at Batuan and Corregidor, in Korea and now in Vietnam. We have utterly repudiated the racist nonsense of an earlier era . . ."

"Twice before we have fought in Asia. Twice we have stopped the aggressor and we have achieved peace. And we will achieve it again in Vietnam. Our men who are in Vietnam at this hour have no doubt about it. Our allies who fight beside us do not doubt it."

Speaking of the 34-year-old Lee and his comrades in arms, Johnson said: "Their willingness to risk their lives for liberty is what preserves it for their countrymen."

Tehran is Bombed With Myriad Roses

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—Airplanes will bomb Tehran with 17,532 roses today, 101 guns will thunder and Persians throughout the land will drop to their knees for the coronation of the Shah of Iran.

The number of roses will symbolize the number of days in the life of Mohammed Reza Shah Pahlavi, who has ruled Iran since 1941 but delayed the coronation until his 48th birthday.

The coronation is purely symbolic, for the shah has been ruler for 26 years, taking over at 22 when his father was forced by the British and Russians to abdicate because of pro-German leanings.

But the shah steadfastly refused to go through with a coronation until Iran had been modernized and he had an heir to the ancient throne.

In the capital, color-it buildings and 11 miles of illuminated streets glowed like a fairyland. More than 7,500 Iranian troops, plus police and gendarmes, will line the 11-mile route that the Shah and the queen's $78,000 bullet-proof coach will follow to the Golestan palace.

The monarchy of Iran dates back some 2,513 years, but the shah's own dynasty was founded only in 1926 when his father seized the throne and put the Pahlavi crown—its dome of 3,755 jewels made for the occasion by a Russian refugee—on his head.

The shah will don the same crown, plus a pearly robe, a golden girdle with an emerald buckle the size of an egg, and a sword encrusted with 1,869 diamonds, rubies and emeralds. Queen Farah will be crowned with a headpiece made up of 1,469 diamonds and 177 other gems.

Celebrations to mark the coronation include street dances, release of 6,738 criminals, opening of a new concert hall and life insurance for every child born Thursday in Gilan province, the queen's birthplace. Leaders of the big three Western powers have sent the shah gifts for his coronation.

Svetlana Gives $340,000 to Charities

By PETER KIHSS
(c) N.Y. Times News Service
NEW YORK—Mrs. Svetlana Alliluyeva has given away $340,000 of the proceeds from her memoir of life as Stalin's daughter; $90,000 has gone to organizations aiding needy Russians or Russian culture abroad.

Of the $340,000, $50,000 went to the Tolstoy Foundation, whose president Alexandra Tolstoy, 83-year-old daughter of the writer Leo Tolstoy, said yesterday that she had found Mrs. Alliluyeva to be "a fine woman, very sincere."

"I think she suffers," Miss Tolstoy, whose foundation has helped resettle some celebrated defectors from the Soviet Union, added, "The Russians ought to be kinder to her."

A $5,000 gift went to Litfund, the fund for the relief of Russian writers and scientists in exile. That group's president

Mark Weinbaum, editor-in-chief of the Russian language daily Novoye Russkoye Slovo here, said his newspaper had refused to publish a number of letters received last spring attacking Mrs. Alliluyeva because of her father.

Another $5,000 gift went to the Russian literary quarterly, Novy Zhurnal (new Review), whose editor, Roman Goul, noted yesterday that his magazine in the last year had published two works by Soviet authors not yet released in the Soviet Union. Mrs. Alliluyeva's contributions, however, were described by one associate as "apolitical"—without political connotations—and given to organizations because they helped Russians.

The largest grant was $250,000 for construction and maintenance of a 30-bed hospital in the village of Kalankar in India, where her husband, Brajesh Singh, had lived.

Hanoi Likes Protests

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
HONG KONG — North Vietnamese spokesmen yesterday described the recent anti-war demonstrations in Washington as "valuable support" for and a "great encouragement" to North Vietnam.

A lengthy discussion of the protest demonstrations of Oct. 21-22, was carried by the official North Vietnamese press service, the Vietnam News Agency (VNA).

The VNA transmitted the text of an editorial in the newspaper Nhan Dan, official organ of the North Vietnamese Communist Party, which said "The American people growing movement against the U.S. ruling circles, aggression in Vietnam constitutes a valuable support for the Vietnamese people. We warmly hail the struggle."

In another dispatch VNA quoted an official of "The Fatherland Front Central Committee" as saying in a speech Tuesday that the Washington rallies marked a new step in the development of the movement in the United States against "the Johnson government's war of aggression in Vietnam."

Nguyen Xien, a member of the presidium of the Fatherland Front, added to a Hanoi audience, "Together with the world people's movement of solidarity with Vietnam and against U.S. aggression, it constitutes a great encouragement to our people."

Senate Committee To Probe New Left

By BEN A. FRANKLIN
(c) N.Y. Times News Service
WASHINGTON — The Senate Internal Security Subcommittee disclosed plans yesterday for a sweeping investigation of organizations of the New Left, including militant civil rights and antiwar groups.

The subcommittee's preparations for the inquiry were revealed when lawyers for two of the groups to be investigated charged that the subcommittee or its agents had "stolen" letters, files and documents to be used for the inquiry.

To counter this complaint, lawyers for the subcommittee introduced the formal, authorizing resolution for an inquiry in United States District Court here yesterday. The resolution was signed by 10 senators and the subcommittee lawyers asserted that the documents in question were obtained as part of a legally authorized congressional investigation.

At the same time, the House Un-American Activities Committee opened public hearings on the alleged role of Communists in last summer's urban rioting.

Another investigation of the riots is being conducted by the Permanent Investigations Subcommittee headed by Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark. This investigation is being carried out so far at the staff level, with no public hearings.

The inquiry by the Internal Security Subcommittee — the Senate counterpart of the House

Un-American Activities Committee — was authorized secretly two weeks ago by the unanimous vote of all 10 subcommittee members, including McClellan.

Its focus is to be on the National Conference for New Politics a convention of new left, black power, pacifist and militant student groups held at the Palmer House in Chicago over the Labor Day weekend, Aug. 31 to Sept. 4. It was this focus that gave the subcommittee's investigation such broad scope.

The convention included delegations of observers from such groups as the National Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam, Students for a Democratic Society, the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, the Congress of Racial Equality, Women's Strike for Peace, and the National Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy, as well as from the Communist Party, U.S.A., and various Trotskyite and Socialist groups. More than 200 organizations were represented at the convention.

Shafer Backs Shriver

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Shafer assured antipoverty director Sargent Shriver yesterday he was opposed to "any drastic curtailment" of programs made available by the federal Office of Economic Opportunity.

"Certainly, I'd be willing to make my views known," Shafer replied at a joint news conference when asked if he would ask Pennsylvania Congressmen to support the $2 billion recommendation for OEO.

Shriver sidestepped the question of whether he had asked Shafer's help in lining up the Pennsylvania congressional delegation in support of the OEO budget, which has been under sharp attack in Washington. "I was about to when he (Shafer) handed me a pamphlet entitled, 'Why I Am A Republican,'" Shriver laughed.

Shafer, asked the same question, replied: "I don't want to have any drastic curtailment of programs available from the OEO."

Shriver came to Harrisburg to announce approval of a $400,000 research and demonstration grant to the state of Pennsylvania for use in funding the recently established Governor's Branch Offices.

Shriver said if only the $1.2 billion proposed by the House is enacted instead of the $2 billion recommended by President Johnson or $2.2 billion approved by the Senate, "one-half the programs in operation, including those in Pennsylvania would be stopped."

Shafer halted the grant as the first of its kind to "an entire state government," and said the money would be used to expand the functions of the Branch Offices, if not, in fact, initiate brand new ones.

Shriver said the grant represented "an attempt to find out how to better involve state government and its resources in the war on poverty."

He said one of the greatest difficulties experienced in such a fight was deciding how to assign the proper roles to the federal, state and local governments, plus private groups concerned with the same plight of individuals.

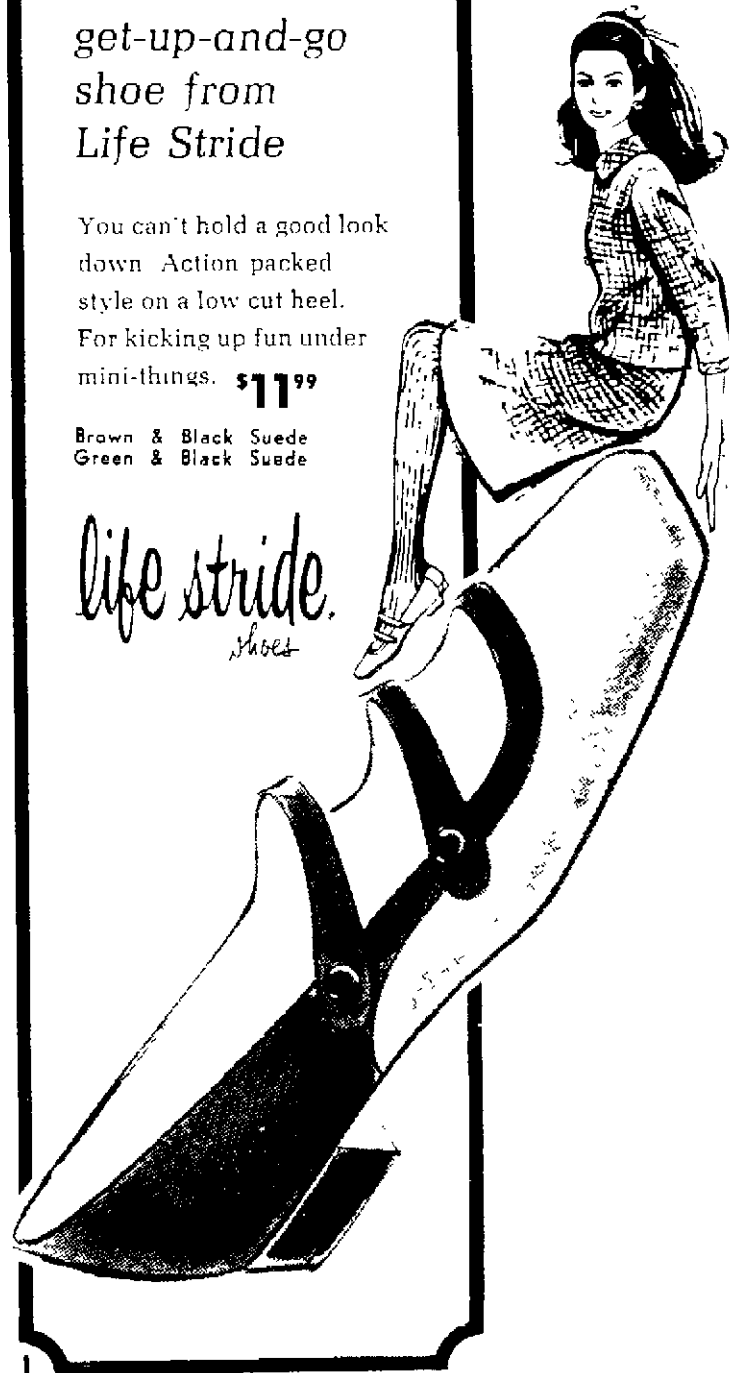

He defined a poverty-stricken person as: "Anyone who has less than 23 cents per meal per day plus $1.20 cents for everything else. If you have 70 cents a day for each meal and $1.20 for other needs, you're rich by our standards."

Orlando Cepeda, who led the St. Louis Cardinals to their easy pennant win the National League was named the league's Player of the Year. Catcher Tim McCarver was the other St. Louis pick on the team, but surprisingly his World Series hero battery-mate, Bob Gibson was left out. San Francisco's Mike McCormick was named National League Pitcher of the year.

Bayer Tops Opening Day Sahara Tourney

By BOB MYERS

Associated Press Sports Writer LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Towering George Bayer led an awesome parade of par wreckers through the first round of the $100,000 Sahara Invitational Golf Tournament yesterday, the big fellow knocking five strokes off regulation figures despite a badly swollen finger and competitive inactivity since last April.

Bayer toured the 7,069-yard, par 36-35—71 Paradise Valley Country Club course under sunny skies in 34-32—66.

Thirty-six professionals of the 144 entered shot sub-par golf, with the defending champion Jack Nicklaus posting a 36-32—68. Arnold Palmer, suffering the agony of a double bogey and bogey on the second and third holes, finished with 39-37—76.

Six players were crowded one shot back of Bayer at 67.

They were Ken Still, 33-34, who was playing with a painful rib injury; Julius Boros, 34-33; Homero Blancas, 35-32; Frank Beard, 35-32; Bo Winger, 34-33; and Terry Dill, 34-33.

Included in the 68 bracket with Nicklaus were Bob Goalby, 35-33; Gardner Dickinson, 34-34; Butch Baird, 33-35; and Joe Carr, 36-32.

Nicklaus said he did not play very well except on the greens, where he holed out putts of 18, 20 and 12 feet for birdies on the back nine.

Dill had a chance to tie or go ahead until he came to the final hole where he had a bogey five.

Yank Shortstop Ordered to Two Years Duty

JANESVILLE, Wis. (AP) — Chief Petty Officer Joseph M. Grey, station keeper of the Naval Reserve Training Center at Janesville, said yesterday that New York Yankee shortstop Jerry Kennedy has been ordered to report Oct. 27 for two years' active duty.

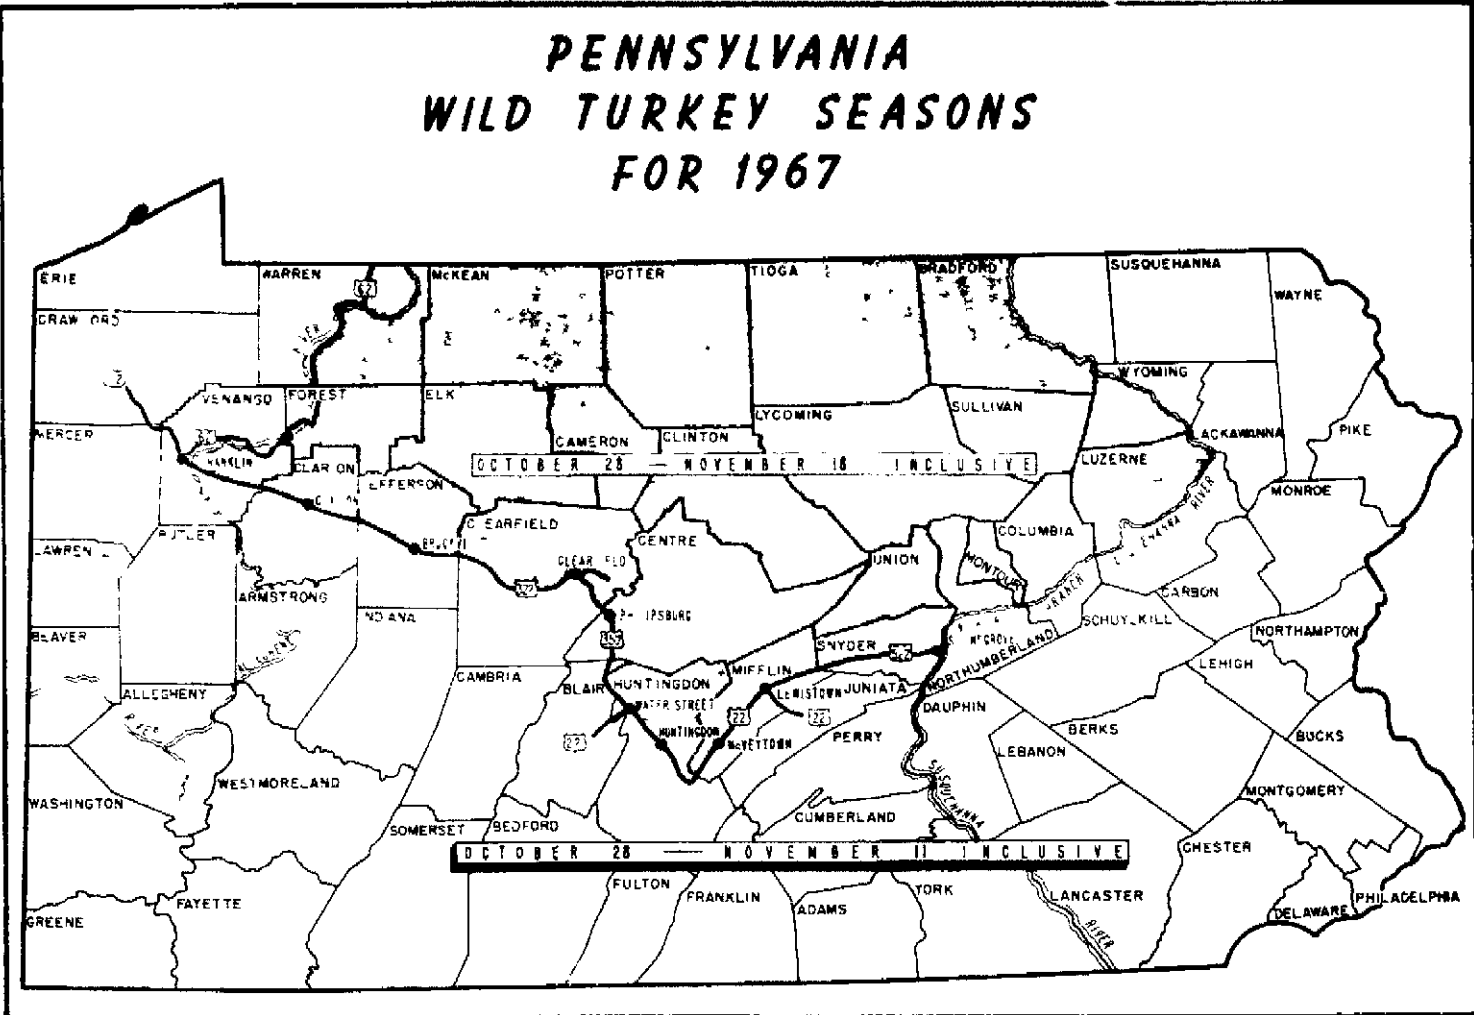

Kennedy, who returned to his home town last week and took an off-season job as a public relations man for a bank, insisted Tuesday night that he didn't know anything yet about the call-up.

Chief Grey said Kennedy signed a receipt for his orders Tuesday and must report at San Diego by midnight Oct. 27.

The 22-year-old former Beloit High School star batted over .300 with the Yankees in a late season trial and had been tentatively tabbed as the team's starting shortstop next season.

GOBBLER LIMITATIONS IN WARREN COUNTY

Pennsylvania's small game season opens Saturday at 9 a.m. EDT, but turkey hunters will have to be careful on which side of the Allegheny River they hunt during the extended season for the gobblers. All land in the county east of the river and route 62 is included in the extended period to November 18. The season for all land west of that line ends November 11.

INCLUDES TURKEY, RABBIT, QUAIL

Small Game Season Open Statewide This Saturday

The regular statewide small game season in Pennsylvania will open on Saturday, October 28, at 9 a.m. Eastern Daylight Saving Time.

Game Commission Executive Director Glenn L. Bowers this week reminded all hunters to give special attention to the opening hour on October 28. The entire state is operating under Eastern Daylight Saving Time on October 28 this year, so there should be no confusion on the opening hour.

Bowers reminded hunters that NO wild birds or wild animals, including migratory birds, may be hunted before 9 a.m. EDT on October 28. All shooting must end at sunset.

Species which will become legal targets on October 28 include male ringneck pheasants, cottontail rabbits, wild turkeys and bobwhite quail. An early season on grouse and squirrels began October 14.

The season on all of the above species, except turkey, will continue through November 25. The season for turkey will end in late November but the Northcentral Pennsylvania area on November 11. In the northcentral part of the state, the turkey season will continue until November 18.

Bowers said, "Pre-season field reports indicate that nearly all species of wildlife had a productive year. Food and cover conditions were excellent statewide, and hunters can look forward to a good season. Dense foliage will require extra precaution so hunters can be sure of their targets."

Wininger, playing in his first tournament since the Oklahoma City Open last May, moved into contention with birdies on the last three holes.

Bayer shot seven birdies and two bogies in his first tournament since the Greensboro Open early in April. He played with his left little finger taped and swollen, the result of a spill from a golf cart last week at his home course, Incline Village, Nev.

Dill suffered cracked ribs getting out of a taxi and hasn't played since September in Philadelphia. He was also using a new driver and it was his putting, he said, that gave him the good score.

Dave Pearson Wins Pole For Sunday's Stock 500

ROCKINGHAM, N. C. (AP) — David Pearson, driving a 1967 Ford, set a new four-lap world record yesterday in winning the pole position for Sunday's American 500 stock car race. His average speed was 117,120 miles per hour.

Jack Bowsher, also in a '67 Ford, won the second position with a speed of 116,864 m.p.h. He was followed by two other Ford drivers, Bobby Allison at 116,797 m.p.h. and Cale Yarborough at 116,712 m.p.h.

A. J. Foyt, this year's Indianapolis 500 winner, turned the four qualifying laps in 116,250 m.p.h. but it was not fast enough to make one of the eight positions settled in Wednesday qualifying. Foyt will try again today.

The first eight positions were rounded out by Richard Petty, Plymouth, 116,674; Dick Hutcherson, Ford, 116,570; Gordon Johncock, Mercury, 116,561; and Leroy Yarborough, Ford, 116,542.

In nothing third place, Allison set a new one-lap record for a one-mile track, touring the oval at 117,416 m.p.h. His car is entered by retired race driver Fred Lorenzen.

Yesterday's qualifying runs were delayed until mid-afternoon because of a morning rain.

Jimmy Clark, the Formula 1 world's driving champion from Scotland, got in a 15-lap practice run in a Holman and Moody Ford, but did not attempt to qualify. He is expected to make the effort today.

Buddy Baker, winner of the recent National 500 at the Charlotte Motor Speedway in a Dodge Charger, also is scheduled for a qualifying run today along with another Formula 1 driver, Lodovico Scarfiotti of Italy.

Others who will be trying after failing to qualify yesterday include Paul Goldsmith, Darel Dieringer, Jim Paschal and Donny Allison.

Bow Hunt Closing Tomorrow

The 1967 regular archery deer season in Pennsylvania will close at sunset tomorrow.

Although it is too early to make an accurate estimate on the number of deer taken this year by bowmen, reports from hunters indicate that this should be a very successful season. The 1966 archery season set the present record harvest of 2,337 whitetails. As of October 19, a total of 1,168 bow and arrow hunters had filed deer kill reports with the Game Commission. As of October 21 last year, 897 archers had reported tagging whitetails.

Successful deer hunters are required by law to file deer kill reports with the Game Commission at Harrisburg within five days of the close of the season in which the whitetail was taken. For bow hunters, this means that the deadline for filing the report this year is November 1.

Following are daily and season bag limits for small game species:

COTTONTAIL RABBITS — A limit of four per hunter per day and 20 for the season.

RINGNECK PHEASANTS — The daily limit is two, with a season limit of eight (males only).

WILD TURKEY — A season limit of one per hunter.

BOBWHITE QUAIL — A limit of four per day and 20 per season.

RUFFED GROUSE — A daily limit of two, with a season limit of ten.

SQUIRRELS — Six per day and 30 per season.

A winter season on squirrels, grouse and cottontail rabbits will open on December 26 and close on January 6. The season on snowshoe hares will open on December 26 and close on January 1.

NEBRASKA, MISSISSIPPI STATE

NCAA Raps 2 Member Schools for Violations

By BEN THOMAS

Associated Press Sports Writer NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Nebraska was given a mild slap on the wrist and Mississippi State's basketball team was barred from championship competition through 1969 in action by the NCAA's powerful Council yesterday.

The Council is the policy-making body of the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

In other action, the group restored Michigan State, Purdue and Bradley to good standing. They had been on probation for infractions.

Nebraska was given a reprimand and a censure for being involved in payment of $600 for repairs on an auto of a prospective student-athlete. The money, the Council said, was given the boy by his employers who were identified as having Nebraska athletic interests.

The penalty, however, is the mildest possible. Nebraska is not barred from any kind of competition.

Stern measures were taken against the Mississippi State basketball team, which was deprived of the right of playing in postseason tournaments through the 1968-69 season.

The action followed that last August of the Southeastern Conference, which underscored what it called "the gross negligence of laxity on the part of Mississippi State basketball coaches."

Michigan State had been put on probation and given sanctions in November, 1964, for improper recruiting practices. Purdue was put on probation in October, 1966, for recruiting irregularities and Bradley a year ago for giving improper financial aid.

The Council ruled that freshmen and ineligible transfer students cannot be used for practicing for a post-season event once the season has ended.

Marcus L. Plant of the University of Michigan, the NCAA president, sharply criticized William S. Cahn, district attorney in Nassau County, New York, for refusing to give the NCAA information on alleged betting by a college football coach.

Cahn has said repeatedly he has evidence that a college coach wagered a big bet on his team. Plant said the NCAA had asked for information but had received none from Cahn. "I get impatient with these people who rush to the newspapers with their charges," he said.

The Big Eight conference office in Kansas City issued a statement by its commissioner, Wayne Duke, stating that the league had been investigating the Nebraska case since October 1966, independent of the NCAA investigation, and so far no action has been taken by the league's faculty representatives. Duke was en route to Kansas City from New Orleans.

Duke said partial information on the NCAA investigation was provided the Big Eight three months ago, and Nebraska and Big Eight officials met with the NCAA committee on infractions on Oct. 1. Nine days later the NCAA committee's report was filed with the conference and Nebraska.

Last week, Duke added, the matter was presented to the faculty representatives. They decided to refer the matter to the conference compliance committee for further study.

Graves Translation Alters Famous Rubaiyat Passages

By ALVIN SHUSTER
(c) N.Y. Times News Service
LONDON—A new translation by poet Robert Graves of the Rubaiyat of Omar Khayyam changes the wording of some of the most famous passages in poetry.
It removes some of the romance in the best-known version and seeks to dispel the general notion that Omar was an atheist and a hedonist who liked to drink wine in the presence of young girls without caring about tomorrow.
In a book to be published next month, Graves says the Rubaiyat was mis-translated in 1859 by Edward Fitzgerald, who used a 15th century manuscript.
Graves, a 73-year-old former professor of poetry at Oxford, said he used a more authoritative 12th century text and worked with the help of Omar Ali-Shah, a Sufi poet and Persian scholar whose family owns it.
The new translation revises some of the best-remembered passages, including the "moving finger writes" and the "flask of wine" and "thou" stanzas.
Here, for example, are the Fitzgerald translations and then the Graves translation of those two stanzas:
FITZGERALD
"The moving finger writes;
and, having writ,
Moves on; nor all thy piety
Nor all thy love can cancel
Half a line,
Nor all they tears wash out
A word of it."
GRAVES
What we shall be is written, and we are so.
Headless of God or evil, pen, write on!
By the first day all futures were decided;
Which gives our griefs and pains irrelevancy.
FITZGERALD
Here with a loaf of bread
beneath the bough,
A flask of wine, a book of verse—and thou Beside me singest in the wilderness—
And wilderness is paradise
enow.
GRAVES
A gourd of red wine and a sheaf of poems—
A bare subsistence, half a loaf, not more—Supplied us two alone in the free desert:
What sultan could we envy on this throne?
In commenting on the "flask of wine" stanza, Graves says the "thou" was not, as so frequently depicted, a beautiful young nymph of the Mo-

Rights Bill Edges Through Committee

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
WASHINGTON—By making an extraordinary effort, the administration succeeded yesterday in getting its least controversial civil rights bill through the Senate Judiciary Committee.

The committee approved by a vote of 8 to 7 President Johnson's bill to strengthen criminal laws against intimidating or injuring Negroes and civil rights workers engaged in federally protected activities. A similar bill passed the House earlier.

Barring a Southern filibuster, the bill is almost certain to pass the Senate and give the President a small but significant part of the civil rights package he requested of Congress earlier this year.

The White House saved the bill from drastic amendments by flying Sen. Hugh Scott, R-

Pa., from England to break a tie vote.

"I was contacted in Oxford, England, at 4 a.m. yesterday (Tuesday) morning by the White House and the Justice Department and asked to return to Washington for this crucial vote," Scott said. "Arrangements were made to get me aboard a military cargo plane and I arrived at Andrews Air Force Base in Maryland last night."

Scott was in England delivering a lecture series at Oxford University on American government and politics. He said he would return shortly, by military cargo plane, to continue the lectures.

George Christian, White House press secretary, said it was not unusual for members of Congress to hitch rides on military cargo planes making a regular run, when space was available.

HUAC Opens Hearings On Causes of Rioting

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
WASHINGTON — The House Committee on un-American Activities opened hearings yesterday to determine the extent of subversive influences in recent urban rioting.

Archie Moore, the former boxer, appeared as the first witness and dismissed the expressed belief of several committee members that Communist subversion was a chief cause of the disturbances that affected several American cities last summer. In surprise testimony, Moore said that the rioters were black people crying out against the white man's injustices and that if the injustices were alleviated Communism could not thrive in the ghettos.

It was an unusual hearing for the controversial committee, which frequently has had riotous sessions while investigating Communism.

Make Arrest In Drug 'Buy'

ERIE — City police early yesterday morning apprehended Stephen Nicholas, 22, of 1141 E. 10th, street in connection with a narcotics "buy" made hours earlier by a local police reporter.

Nicholas alias Nick Stevens was charged with a violation of the narcotics law of the state penal code and was to be arraigned before Alderman Samuel Rossiter Jr. Nicholas was arrested by Det. Lt. Mario Bagnoni.

Erie police launched a full scale investigation Tuesday night after learning the reporter had purchased marijuana at an E. 10th store.

Newspaper officials turned over to police a tin foil wrapped package which contained the marijuana purchased shortly after 6 p. m. Tuesday.

A laboratory test revealed the contents to be the narcotic and it was reported there was about one gram of the material, enough for about 10 cigarettes.

The area newspaper started its probe of the sale of marijuana in Erie after getting several unverified reports the stuff was available for sale to the college crowd.

Director Resigns

The Venango County Planning Commission Tuesday night accepted the resignation of J. Edward Adams as executive planning director. Adams, who had served as director since Sept. 1, 1963, plans to enter private practice as a principal partner with the firm of Blackston and Associates. His resignation is effective December 31 of this year.

Shootings Cleared

Numerous calls of inquiry and complaint on "shooting" in Kane borough have resulted in Steve Walton facing charges of disorderly conduct and a motor code violation. Walton, operating a car with a mechanical defect that resulted in successive backfires resembling shots, was told initially to get the car out of town. He returned and was reported "backfiring the car again" when he was apprehended.

WARREN TIMES-MIRROR AND OBSERVER

WARREN, PA., THURSDAY, OCTOBER 26, 1967

Erie Man Expected to Take Crippen's Planning Office

Erie County Commissioner William O. Hill Jr. is expected to step up to the presidency of the eight-county North-western Pennsylvania Regional Planning and Development Commission in light of the resignation of Warren County Commissioner Lewis L. Crippen.

Crippen's resignation announced in a letter to Hill Tuesday, leaves the regional commission with a scant two contending applicants for the $13,500 a year position of executive coordinator-director.

Crippen, according to Hill, had been a leading contender for the newly created post and had served as president of the regional unit since it was formally established last January. He asked Commissioner Hill to assume presidency of the commission.

Crippen explained his new job as a representative for an investment firm will preclude him from devoting time needed to serve as regional county president. His term as commissioner expires Dec. 31.

Hill reported Howard W. Irons of Crawford County and Mrs. Ginger J. Shaeffer, Forest County, are the only applicants who have expressed a willingness to assume the regional post for the salary offered. Others have applied but have

The Warren-Forest Counties Economic Opportunity Council has been awarded a $78,496 grant for a 12-month Head Start program, according to Sen. Joseph S. Clark (D-Pa.).

The appropriation was approved by the Economic Opportunity Council in Washington yesterday.

Erie Girl, 20, Killed in Crash

ERIE — A 20-year-old Erie girl was killed Tuesday in a motor cycle-truck accident at 12th and Cascade streets.

Dead is Nancy Balke, of 711 W. Fourth st., who was thrown from the cycle when it struck a semi-truck making a turn.

The dead girl was a passenger on the motorcycle operated by Robert Kline, 20, also of Erie who suffered an injured knee.

City police said the motorcycle was passing the truck on the right-hand side when the crash occurred at 4 p. m. The truck was making a right-hand turn.

Miss Balke was thrown from the cycle and struck a building. County Coroner Merle Wood said she died from a fractured skull and broken neck.

Her death brought to six the number of motorcycle fatalities in the county this year with three of them occurring in the Erie city limits.

Weather Forecast

Western Pennsylvania temperatures today through Saturday will average above normal with highs in the 60s and lows in 40s. It will turn cooler with showers to average about a half to one inch.

cited a minimum salary of $15,000, Hill said. They will be contacted, however, to determine their willingness to start at the offered salary with a chance to negotiate a higher salary next year.

Applicants are being screened by the regional commission and then interviewed by the Pennsylvania Department of Commerce, Hill said.

List Info For Area Sportsmen

A special free folder, "Hunter's and Fisherman's Directory and Map," has been prepared by Kinzua Dam Vacation Bureau in time for the 1967 hunting season. The folder lists camp grounds, cottages, private homes, hotels and motels in Warren County along with an illustrated map of the area showing streams to fish and areas to hunt.

The publication also contains information on bag limits and season dates in Pennsylvania and a map of the new Allegheny Reservoir with a key to recreation sites around the 95-mile shoreline.

This folder can be obtained free of charge from Kinzua Dam Vacation Bureau, Box 844, Warren, Pa., 16365, by anyone who sends a postal card request. Over 10,000 are distributed each fall to help find lodgings for the influx of sportsmen to this Northwestern Pennsylvania community.

Warren County is the home of the new Kinzua Dam and Lake and headquarters of the Allegheny National Forest. In the forest and on the lake you can camp, hike, swim, picnic, fish and hunt. It is estimated that over 20,000 white tail deer and over 300 black bear make up the big game population of the National Forest. In addition there are thousands of small animals and over 500 miles of unposted fishing streams, including trout, bass, walleyes and northern pike.

Consider Penal Reform

By JOHN L. TAYLOR HARRISBURG (AP) — A package of penal reform bills, proposed nearly two months ago by the Shaefer Administration was introduced in the Senate yesterday.

The legislation would: —Establish a "pilot project pre-release center" for prisoners to begin adjusting to life outside the prison through work programs shortly before their release.

—Refer the cases of mentally defective delinquents to the Department of Welfare for incarceration in mental institutions rather than prisons.

—Eliminate prolonged incarceration in county jails.

—Equalize the daily prison expenses for all state correctional institutions that counties are required to pay for prisoners which they commit.

—Authorize judges to fix maximum sentences for women committed to the State Correctional Institution at Muncy.

The bills also would make several other changes, which the administration said were recommended by the Justice Department and an advisory committee headed by Dean Burton R. Laub of the Dickinson Law School.

Introduction of the package highlighted a brief session of the Senate, which adjourned until Nov. 13. The House, which quit Tuesday, also returns on that date.

The Senate passed only one the Anthracite Coal Open Pit Mining Reclamation Fund. The measure went on to Gov. Shaefer on a unanimous vote.

The Finance Committee released to the floor a package of three bills authorizing the Philadelphia school board, with approval of city council, to levy an unearned income tax. The legislation had been passed by the House Monday.

The Education Committee reported a two-bill package that would authorize a branch campus of Clarion State College in Oil City.

The extended recess by both House and Senate was due to the upcoming municipal election Nov. 7. During the recess, leaders of both House and Senate planned to continue informal talks on ways of ending the five-month legislative impasse over taxes.

TACH-X IN USE

Using the Tach-X as an instrument for the improvement of reading ability is the principal of the Jefferson Street Elementary School, Angelo Di Mino. Interested second grade students are, Kelly McCain and Lisa Derzing.

New Reading Device Helps Elementary School Students

As part of a continual effort to provide the best possible education for its students, the Warren County School District is involved in on-going efforts to supply the latest equipment and facilities to professional staff members so that they may increase the effectiveness of their teaching.

In the area of reading instruction, so important for the educational development of all students, six Tachistoscopes have been secured through Title I funds of the Elementary Secondary Act of 1965. A Tachistoscope, more commonly known as a Tach-X, is an instrument which provides the teacher with an additional teaching tool, the use of which stimulates pupil interest in studying in this vital area — reading.

The Tach-X presents printed materials in a series of timed exposures ranging from one second to one-hundredth of a second. These short exposures of words, numbers or symbols, cause the student to "reach out" visually in an aggressive manner, to react to and apprehend with more attention what was seen, to form a more vivid mental impression of the visual stimuli, and to organize the material in such a way as to increase speed of reading and retention of the concepts or information contained in materials read.

Research has established that in reading people do not naturally visually perceive in phrases, that phrasing in reading is a thinking process, and that "phrase - thoughts" results from a series of fixations or visual impressions. The stress of Tach-X training, therefore, is on teaching habits of aggressive seeing, orderly perception, and minute, careful scrutiny of visual material, all of which results in more effective reading practices and increased retention.

While the six Tach-X's are available to and used by the twenty-five elementary schools in the school district, they are only utilized as a reinforcing media to the more formal methods in the teaching of reading. It is the objective of the Warren County School District to provide the best possible ways and means to improve the educational process for the benefit of all the students in the school district.

John Mallory, Warren County superintendent of schools, will present Stephen L. Couple Ready For Halloween

MEADVILLE — A young couple is ready for trick or treat this year. Last Halloween, their first in Hillcrest they laid in what they thought to be a tremendous supply of candy. After about 50 kids had filed in with yawning sacks, the stock was gone.

The head of the house pulled his wife's nightgown over his head, cut eyeholes in a pillow case and pulled that over his head too.

He scurried down the street and got lost in a crowd of costumed youngsters. After a few house calls he was able to return home with a fresh supply of goodies for distribution.

The mint yolk was designed with a jeweled necklace and brief sleeves with scalloped edge underscored with velvet ribbon. Her bouffant shoulder length veil was of English pure silk illusion. The matron of honor, Mrs. Jo Ann Elmquist, was attired in a pink brocade street length dress with an empire waistline and coat of the same material. The front was secured with a bow and was gathered in the back with a belt set with rhinestones. A short veil was caught to a head piece of satin. Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A new fad started a few weeks ago. It has really taken hold and I wonder if you know about it. It's called "Let's play Ann Landers."

Here's how it works: When teenagers get together (it can be either a group or just one boy and one girl) and the conversation lags, someone pops up with "Let's play Ann Landers."

The person who is "it" is asked a question by anyone in the crowd. The person who must judge "it's" answer is called "Pigeon." It can be a sensible question or a dumb question or a personal question. The trick is to come up with an answer that sounds like Ann Landers. "Pigeon" is then asked if he agrees with Ann.

He must say "yes" or "no" and state his reasons. If he doesn't come up with a good reason he is "it" until he makes the grade. You'd come unglued if you could hear some of the answers. One kid had a column of yours in his wallet. He just whipped it out and read the answer and cracked up the whole crowd.

This game is a gas. It also helps kids get to know each other better. Please print my letter and tell us you aren't insulted—GARDEN CITY PRINCES

DEAR PRINCES: Indeed not, I'm flattered. I wish I could be a little mouse in the corner during one of these sessions. Keep talking, kids. I'm all for it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I need some help with my 12-year-old daughter. Her daddy died when she was seven months old and I went to live with my widowed mother and unmarried sister. Terry has grown up with no man in the house — unfortunately her only uncle lives 1,000 miles away.

Ever since Terry was a small child she was overly affectionate toward any male who came into the house. She climbed on men's laps, combed their hair, patted their faces and begged them to kiss her. This was considered cute when she was a tot, but now I'm worried because she has not outgrown it as I had hoped she would. I feel she should not be kissing the mailman, the meter reader, the paper boy and everything in trousers. I would appreciate your advice on what to do, Ann. — TROUBLE AHEAD

DEAR TROUBLE: Little girls who grow up with no man in the house sometimes become starved for fatherly affection and this is why they become overly affectionate to "anything in trousers." (Incidentally, the same thing occurs to little girls whose fathers ignore them.) I hope you will speak to your daughter's teacher. Ask her advice. Some schools have excellent counseling programs and perhaps Terry can get the help she needs from the school counselor. If not, ask the teacher to recommend someone.

Confidential to I wanted help and you gave me rubbish: Sorry about that. The trouble with good, solid advice, my friend, is that it sometimes interferes with people's plans.

Art Dept. Hosted Open

Meeting At Woman's Club

"American Art - Past and Present" was the subject of an illustrated lecture presented at the Monday, October 23, open meeting of the art department of the Woman's Club by Professor Joseph R. Spence, head of the art department at Clarion State College.

Beginning with early American painters of the eighteenth century and continuing to the twentieth century, Professor Spence presented many pictures which included aesthetic as well as sociological conditions common to the work of the painters within their periods of production.

The art of painting in America, although evident in 1670, did not flourish until the eighteenth century, the speaker pointed out. The first American painters were commercial artists who made tavern and store signs. In slack times they painted houses. Occasionally they might attempt to record the image of a family patriarch or a favorite child. These untalented, itinerant painters were not unskilled, and some of their paintings were masterpieces of skillful technique, almost medieval in quality.

"Penn's Treaty with the Indians" by Benjamin West in the early 1800's shows the Italian Renaissance influence and the combining of religious subjects with the painter's knowledge of the American Indians with whom he had been reared.

Charles Wilson Peal established the first art school in America, The Academy of Fine Arts in Philadelphia. "The Peal Family Group" is a masterpiece of realism creating the illusion of deep perspective.

"George Washington," a painting by Gilbert Stuart, remains the best clue as to the likeness of the President and is one from which the engraving on the dollar bill was done.

John James Audubon completed a folio of 435 species of American birds. His portrait, "Snowy Heron," a watercolor, shows a rare blend of scientific observation and artistic organization.

Mary Cassatt is America's best known woman painter and her oil painting, "Woman and Child Driving," shows a definite impressionistic quality and has the charm and appeal of her finest work.

John Sloan believed that art should reflect experience and show the painter's reaction to it. In "Sunday, Girls Drying Their Hair," Sloan portrays three working girls drying their hair on the roof top of a New York tenement and tells a story of real life.

Ben Shahn painted "Miners' Wives" in an expressionistic style. It is a bitter comment on the poverty and hopelessness of people caught in the economic distress of the Pennsylvania

St. Luke's Catholic Church Setting For Yucha-Putanko Nuptial Mass

St. Luke's Roman Catholic Church in Youngsville was the setting for the Nuptial Mass at which Barbara A. Yucha and Eugene R. Putanko exchanged their wedding vows recently. The 12 noon Mass was celebrated by the pastor of the church, the Rev. Father Charles Hurley.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Yucha of Pittsfield, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Putanko of Jeannette.

Wedding music was provided on the organ by Mrs. Valda Papalia, and vocal soloist was Larry Stainbrook.

The altar was adorned with arrangements of white gladioli, chrysanthemums and lighted tapers, for the double ring service.

Escorted on the arm of her father, the bride wore a white peau de sole gown styled with an a-silhouette with re-embroidered Alencon lace used in defining the empire waistline of the molded bodice and the edge of the bell sleeves. The lace also encircled the long skirt of the gown and edged the voluminous Watteau train which was secured with a pert back bow and streamers. Her bouffant veil of imported silk illusion was caught to a cluster of peau de sole and lace looped bows with lace petals edged with seed pearls and sprinkled with aurora borealis. She carried a cascade of white miniature carnations and yellow roses to which was attached her mother's handkerchief carried on her wedding day. The bride placed a bouquet of white pompons at the shrine of the Blessed Virgin Mary.

Kathleen Zolko, cousin of the bride, was the maid of honor in moss velvet with gold satin and vanilla crepe, a gold satin headdress with butterfly veil and carried a cascade of yellow pompons. Gowned similarly, but carrying shaded pompons, were the bridesmaids Irma Putanko, sister of the groom, from Jeannette, Penna.; Janet Ahlquist of Pittsfield, and Mary Ann Yucha, a cousin of the bride. The flower girl, Mistress Ellen Yucha, a cousin of the bride, wore a frock similar to that of the honor attendant and carried a miniature arrangement of the same kind of flowers as the bridesmaids.

Tom Kilpatrick of London, England, was the best man; ushers were Robert Yucha, brother of the bride, Thomas Yucha, cousin of the bride, Ronald Putanko, cousin of the groom of Uniontown. The ringbearer was George Savage a cousin of the groom from Butler.

The mother of the bride chose a turquoise linen dress with matching jacket, white feather hat with black trim, patent accessories, and had a corsage of yellow roses and carnations.

The mother of the groom was in a dress of beige crepe with jacket to match, green accessories and a corsage of pink carnations and roses. The bride remembered her godmother with a corsage of pink and white carnations. Grandmother's, Mrs. John Furtak and Mrs. Pete Bilko had corsages of white carnations.

The reception was held in the Pleasant Township Fire Hall for four hundred guests. Music for the reception was provided by the Ed Snyder Band of Erie. Decorations were in yellow and white, with the wedding cake ornamented in keeping with the autumn season. Other table decorations included the bouquets of the bride and her attendants. Master and mistress of ceremonies were Mr. and Mrs. John Zolko; aides were Mrs. Walter Kushner, Mrs. Fred Lauffenburger, Mrs. Walter Trask, Mrs. Mary Zavaniski, Susan Kushner, Mrs. John Yucha, Judy Yucha, and Janet Zolko managed the guest book.

For traveling to the New England States, the new Mrs. Putanko wore a three-piece knit suit in light green with matching accessories and a corsage of yellow roses. Mr. and Mrs. Putanko are now at home at 32 Broadhead avenue, Jamestown, N.Y.

The bride is a graduate of Youngsville High School, class of 1963, and was employed at Pennsylvania Gas Company in Warren. The groom, who graduated from the Electronic School in Pittsburgh after graduating from Jeannette High School, served four years with the United States Air Force. He is presently employed at Marshall-Rockwell in Jamestown.

Pre-nuptial affairs were given by the aunts of the bride, Mrs. John Zolko, Mrs. Ted Yucha, Mrs. John Yucha and Mrs. Joe Yucha; a dinner at Bud's Carriage House, Jamestown, hosted by women employees at Pennsylvania Gas Company. The rehearsal dinner was held at the home of the bride.

Out of town guests attended from Greenville, Cambridge Springs, Uniontown, Jeannette, Butler, Smethport, Penna.; Jamestown, N.Y.; Chicago, Ill.; and Georgia.

1st Lutherans Call For Unity Among All Lutherans

Members of First Lutheran Church, Warren, will be encouraged to join a growing and hopeful chorus of voices calling for greater unity among Lutherans—by signing their names to a "Reformation Manifesto"—this Sunday, October 29.

A conference of theological professors from the various branches of Lutheran seminaries in this country drew up the manifesto as a simple and convenient device so that the lay members of all Lutheran churches could thereby express their hope for a united Lutheranism in the future.

Just as Luther nailed his "95 Theses" (statements) to the door of the Castle Church in Wittenberg, 450 years ago, so this "Reformation Manifesto" will be "nailed" to the doors of First Lutheran Church, Warren, this Reformation Sunday. Opportunity will also be given for those attending the evening Warren County Reformation Rallyes in First Lutheran Church to sign the document. When the signatures are forwarded to the Committee of Lutheran Theological Professors' Conference, an accompanying letter will indicate the desire not only for greater Lutheran unity—but an even larger concern for Lutheran participation in interdenominational relationships and ecumenical efforts.

The complete text of the "Reformation Manifesto" is as follows: "We, the undersigned, appeal to our Lutheran Churches in America to declare Pulpit and Altar fellowship with one another as a manifestation of our unity in Christ, a sign of our common Lutheran heritage, and a symbol of our common subscription to the Lutheran Confessions. We ask the leaders of the Lutheran bodies in this country to continue their endeavors to bring our churches into closer fellowship. We invite both clergy and laity in good stewardship to express our Lutheran unity in all possible ways both through present programs and future plans."

Two Numbers that Add Up To A Beautiful Figure by Formfit Rogers

The Lace Shaper Bra is Number 207, softly lined, and designed to make you and your clothes look great. $4. The nylon and Lycra spandex girdle, Number 879, looks so pretty with that frivolous lace panel you'd never believe how it controls: like taut young muscles. $6. The other beautiful figure, besides yours, is the price: just $10 for both.

Opening lead Ten of ♣ South gave it the old college try in attempting to salvage a seemingly hopeless four heart contract, and but for an alert defense by the opposition who carefully followed every spot he would have been successful.

West opened the ten of clubs and East overtook with the jack after dummy played the three East cashed the king and continued with the ace which declarer ruffed.

The situation was desperate for South. The defense had two tricks in and the only apparent way to avoid losing more than one trump was to find West with specifically the ace and another heart. By leading up to dummy's queen and then ducking on the return he could feel the ace without using up an honor, provided of course that West has a doubt.

On the bidding however, East rather than his partner was marked with possession of the ace of hearts in order to warrant his opening call. South decided therefore to try a long shot.

After ruffing the third club, he cashed the ace and king of spades and then trumped a third round of the suit. Dummy was reentered with the jack of diamonds and the queen of clubs was put thru. East refused to ruff, discarding a diamond, South however, trumped again in order to continue reduction of his heart holding in preparation for the end position.

The king and ace of diamonds were cashed as everyone obligingly followed suit and declarer was in dummy at trick 11, with the following holding:

The six of spades was led and East realized that if he ruffed with the eight of hearts declarer would merely overruff inasmuch as West was obliged to follow suit. East therefore ruffed with the jack obliging South to top him with the king.

The nine of hearts was put thru and West alerted covered with the ten. North played the queen and East the ace. The latter's eight of hearts scored the setting trick since South was left with the seven.

Your Horoscope

By Frances Drake

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars, FOR THURSDAY, OCTOBER 26, 1967

ARIES (March 21 to April 20) — Think about the things you did or said yesterday and last week. Were they representative of the best you? A kind deed you do naturally — now think about yourself more, not selfishly, but to give yourself a better break.

TAURUS (April 21 to May 21) — Take no "tip" as such, play your own hunches — but don't pass up intelligent hints or like example. Never say die because one, two or three people have not listened to your suggestions.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21) — Usually this Sign does too much for others and then hides when he or she is in difficulty, like need of a physician or other such help. Turn the tables around and show your good for all it is.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23) — When you find no one listens to your advice (which is normally sound but often overlooked) then listen to the other person, to a point. There is always a line to be drawn to protect your interests.

LEO (July 24 to August 23) — You may get your come-uppance today and from an unexpected source. Take with your usual good grace the pros and the cons. Study causes and effects. Could achieve in projects to which you give your earnest endeavor.

VIRGO (August 24 to September 23) — You are a stickler for the truth and DON'T give up this trait and thus demean yourself. Many may call upon your opinions — but be careful that you are not tricked into words or deeds your common sense advises against.

LIBRA (September 24 to October 23) — Here and now is where diplomacy can come into play effectively. And you can make quite a mark for yourself in several departments. Catch as catch can is no road for you!

SCORPIO (October 24 to November 22) — There is no such thing as "can't" for you. CAN DO is big in your life. Search out prevailing currents and ideas. Use function of fact you can heal others' wounds with. SAGITTARIUS (November 23 to December 21) — Temper everything with a soft-pedal and understanding and you'll be pleasantly surprised at results. Sound matters, essential issues, community and national affairs all demand their share of attention.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20) — Retain enthusiasm and hope high, your aims (if backed by diligent action) will not be in vain. Attend to necessary duties first, then partake of healthy, happy recreation for leisure hours.

AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19) — Day may not be tops for purely mental work, but inviting rays emanate for artistic, social and in general professional interests, reliable investments. Don't fuss about, tackle things with faith.

PISCES (February 20 to March 20) — Similar tendencies as to Cancer. Your planet is in benefic aspect and you have most of the odds in your favor. Be your genial, ambitious and helpful self and honorable and welcome rewards should accrue.

YOU BORN TODAY: There is as much difference between the developed and underdeveloped Scorpio person as between the eagle and the scorpion, the latter representing the underdeveloped. Teddy Roosevelt was a highly developed Scorpio man who threw Scorpio's boundless energy into vigorous living. Inherently tolerant and fair in judgments you can still be blinded by anger and intolerance toward the weak. Initiative, courage, verve are trademarks of Scorpio. You are capable of passionate devotion but also may be preyed upon by others' enthusiasm for wrong causes. Root out discouragement; be more careful of your health.

How to Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

MOTHER—SON BIRTHMARK
Several years ago we received a letter from a woman who had a large, flat birthmark on her thigh. After she married and had a child the defect disappeared but one cropped up on her son's leg in the same spot as hers. She wanted an explanation for this mysterious transfer.

This was no mystery but it was an interesting and unusual coincidence. We assume that the birthmark was a vascular nevus, perhaps a strawberry hemangioma. They vary in size from a minute fleck to a huge growth involving an entire extremity. They are present at birth or appear during the first few months of life.

Birthmarks of this type have a tendency to grow rapidly for several months, and then remain stationary. Ultimately they may disappear spontaneously.

The coincidence occurred because the mother's birthmark began to regress at the same time her son's lesion began to form. Both just happened to develop in the same area. Birthmarks do not rub off nor are they transported cell by cell from mother to child.

There are several types of hemangiomas. Portwine stains, the most common of all, are usually seen at birth. These rarely fade or disappear. Most of them are on the scalp where they are covered by hair. There is no way to eradicate a portwine stain without leaving undesirable marks. Some dermatologists destroy the lesion with dry ice, whereas others utilize radiation, surgical excision or by tattooing with skin-colored pigment.

All treatments have limitations. Knowing this avoids discouragement. The newest method is to lighten the color with the laser beam.

TOMORROW: Improvement in Arthritis. Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

POISONS AND VISION
C.D. writes: Do whisky and cigarettes harm the eyesight?

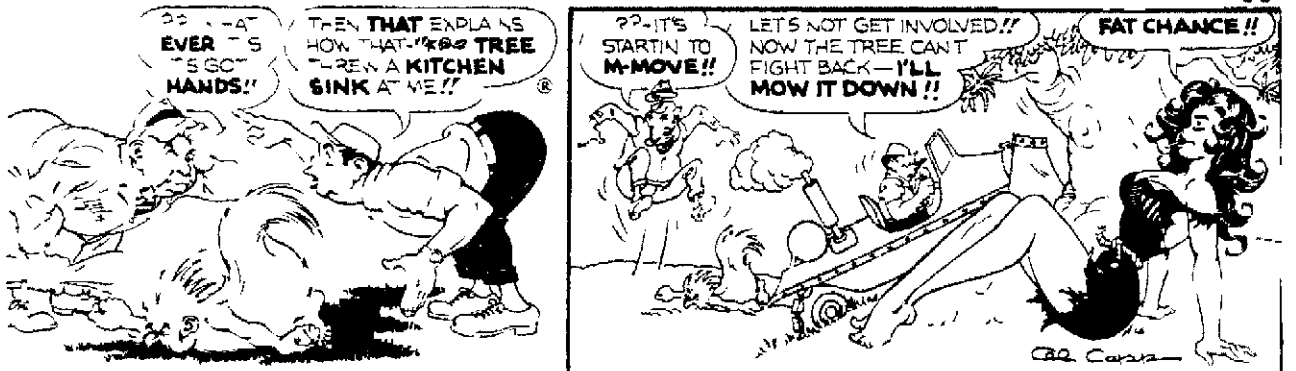

REPLY
Heavy drinkers and smokers may develop toxic neuritis of the optic nerve. Abstinence is followed by improvement, provided the nerve is not destroyed. Nicotine also may affect the circulation of the retinal vessels. In central angiospastic retinopathy the arteries are thrown into a state of temporary spasm during which vision is affected. Tobacco aggravates but does not cause the condition.

TODAY'S HEALTH HINT—Continuous loud noise may cause irreparable damage to the hearing.

News Reference Service Now Available

Now available at the Warren Public Library is a special news reference service—Facts On File—which puts significant news events at fingertip reach, making it possible for users to locate specific news items as easily as looking up a word in the dictionary.

Facts On File news digests— which are issued weekly—record tens of thousands of items annually, spanning all categories of news from world and national affairs to sports, finance, education, religion, science and the arts as well as the activities of newsworthy individuals.

Facts On File news digests contents are culled from over 4,000 newspapers, magazines, informative radio-TV broadcasts and press releases. More than one million words of press reports are condensed to 10,000 words of essential information every week, and facts are checked against all news sources to assure accuracy.

A Cumulative Index, issued twice monthly and consolidated throughout the year, tells the user exactly where to find the details of a news event in the Facts On File news digests. The index also specifies the date of the event, thus making it possible to find additional background information in news, paper and periodical files.

The Cumulative Index lists every name, country, subject and organization mentioned in the weekly news digests. Specific events are identified in brief index entries which are listed chronologically under the name and subject headings. Multiple indexing eases the search for the particular item.

For permanent reference, the weekly news digests along with an annual index of more than 125 pages are bound in hardcover Yearbooks going back to the year 1956.

Tied to the yearbooks are the master index volumes which pinpoint facts and dates of events over a five-year span. A check of the master index volumes shows the date of any event and the page of the Facts On File yearbooks where the facts appear, saving research time and effort.

Give 'em a Treat — Not A Trick on Halloween

Give 'em a treat—not a trick! This appeal to motorists to be alert for young "trick-or-treaters" was issued yesterday by Harry H. Brainerd, commissioner of Traffic Safety, who said that Halloween can be one of the most dangerous times of the year for children.

Commissioner Brainerd's appeal was also directed to parents who have children planning a trick-or-treat excursion about the neighborhood.

"If both motorists and parents cooperate," he said, "we can give the youngsters a treat—their safety and well-being. It would be a mean trick to inflict an injury or take the life of an innocent child who momentarily disregards the basic rules of safety in his exuberance or excitement of the observance of Halloween."

Brainerd called on parents to warn their children to be aware of oncoming traffic and not to dart into the path of approaching cars.

"Provide youngsters with flashlights and be sure their costumes have some white visible so that approaching motorists can see them," he suggested. "It might also be a good idea to apply reflectorized tape to treat bags and costumes."

The safety official asked motorists to be particularly cautious during the Halloween season.

"Remember that children," he cautioned, "in their anxiety to escape from an innocent prank, are oblivious to approaching cars. Drive slowly in areas where you feel youngsters may be on the prowl for a treat, and be alert for children who are apt to dart from the curb into the path of your car."

"Ghosts and goblins have a reputation for appearing from out of nowhere... and this is particularly true when they are children with the Halloween season in full tilt," Brainerd said.

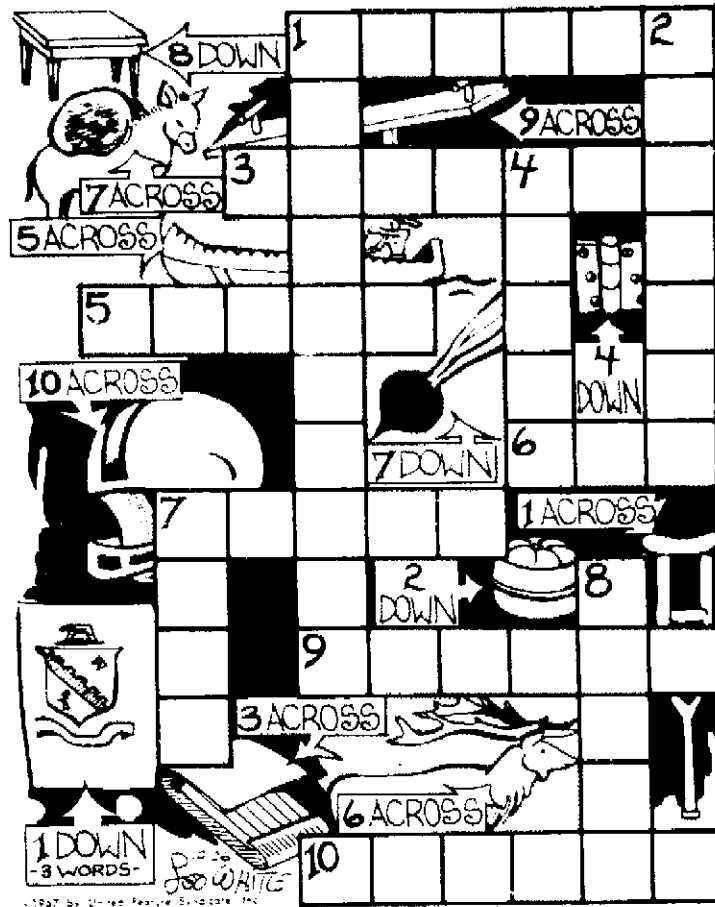

Seniors Look

For Play Props

When the Boys and Ghouls Together" gather for Warren Area High School's senior class play, they will be using props provided by non-theatrical class members as well as local stores.

The students are now working on needed items from a rope of bed sheets to a plate of cookies. Unable to obtain a grandfather clock, the committee has elected one of the members with artistic ability to paint a clock on the set. The fireplace will come from a previous WAHS production, "Cheaper by the Dozen," presented by the Class of 1967.

Russell News and Activities

By Helen Lindell

The Senior High Russell M. Y.F. held a party on Thursday, Oct. 12, at the Sportsman's Club in Russell. On Sunday, October 15, two members of the M.Y.F. participated in the morning Laymen's Service. Sherman Burdick read the scripture, and Doug Stanton, the responsive reading. The group, both Junior and Senior High M.Y.F., will be collecting for UNICEF on Oct. 28. All donations will be appreciated.

The Cub Scout Pack 14 meeting will be held at Russell Fire Hall this evening, (Thursday) at 7 o'clock. All Cub Scout parents are urged to be present. A bake sale will be held by the Webelos Den to defray costs of their hats.

Den 6 met Monday night with all six Cubs present, along with Bert Moyer, Denner and Bruce Cable, assistant Denner. Each of the boys told about an American folklore, with special reports of William Penn. The boys worked on their totem poles for display at the Pack meeting. The game "Jump River" was played, in closing they all sang "The More We Get Together."

The October meeting of the Pine Grove PTA was held in the Russell School cafeteria with 104 attending. Devotions were led by Mr. Thorson. The minutes of the September meeting were read and approved. The executive committee meeting minutes were then read. The treasurer's report stated a balance of $482.01.

A final report on the Fun Fair showed a profit of $445.73. PTA membership has reached 106 as of this meeting.

It was decided to purchase hand over hand bars for the playground for use by the lower grades. Also each teacher will receive $10 to purchase games, etc. for use during bad weather. These purchases will total approximately $210.

Mrs. Clarence Carlson Jr. gave a report on the September council meeting. She brought back the Standard Certificate and a request from council for a representative to attend each council meeting. Mr. Cable will appoint someone to this position before next month.

The Fifth grade has made $182 from their garage sale and skating party. This money is to be used to help finance their Pittsburgh trip.

Parents were reminded the school is not open until 7 o'clock on PTA nights. The annual Halloween party will be held Tuesday afternoon, the same as last year.

Mrs. McJunkin's fifth grade won the attendance award and homeroom banner.

The program was presented by Mrs. Blanche McJunkin, fifth grade teacher. She showed very beautiful and interesting slides of her recent trip through Europe.

Refreshments were served by fifth grade mothers, Mrs. Charles Martin and Mrs. John Gruber.

WEBELO DEN

The first meeting of the Webelos Den was held at the fire hall with sixteen boys present, accompanied by at least one parent because of the new Webelos Program now starting. The new additions to the uniform were discussed. The Webelos now have a sign all of their own with a colorful kerchief and a slide and hat with their emblem. The boys are to bring a list of five different badges that they would like to earn. Out of the lists there will be the five wanted most, and these will be worked on during the meetings, also the Tenderfoot requirements for their Webelos Badge. Each week they are required to bring their Lion, new Webelos and Boy Scout hand book to each meeting.

At their second meeting the Lion requirements were gone over and the first achievement completed. These books are to be gone over with the parents and signed if possible.

The requirements for the sportsman's badge were reviewed. With the boys going into new and different accessories, a bake sale will be held at the Pack meeting tonight (Thursday) to help defray the costs of their own hats, with their parents buying the kerchief and slide.

The meeting was closed by saying the Cub Scout Promise in unison.

Questions and Answers On Federal Tax Matters

This column of questions and answers on Federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q — I just received another bill for taxes I already paid. What should I do?

A — Return the bill with the notation that you have already paid it. Give the date the payment was made and the office to which it was sent to help identify your payment.

Q — Where can I get a copy of an estimated tax declaration?

A — You can get a Form 1040ES at any IRS office. The next quarterly estimated tax payment is due January 15. Taxpayers amending their declarations or filing an estimated tax return for the first time, should also do this by January 15.

Q — I've been supporting my uncle for some years. Will I lose my deduction for him if he goes into a rest home?

A — A close relative does not have to be a member of your household to qualify as your dependent. As long as all the dependency tests are met, you will still be able to claim your uncle as a dependent even though he no longer lives with you.

Q — Can I claim a medical expense deduction for the cost of diaper service for our baby?

A — No.

Q — Is it true that I can only claim a $1,000 deduction for loss on the sale of stock? My loss amounted to more than that.

A — The maximum amount allowed is $1,000. Any excess over that amount is to be carried forward for an unlimited period and be used to offset capital gains and up to $1,000 of ordinary income each year until absorbed.

Q — I am a nurse and work night hours at the hospital. I use my car to travel back and forth because there is no night-time public transportation available. Can I deduct my car operating expenses?

A — No. The car is used for commuting purposes. Such expenses are not deductible regardless of the reason the car is so used.

Q — I had to pay interest on a balance of income tax I owed. Can I deduct the interest?

A — If you itemize your deductions, the interest expense may be claimed.

Meadville Officials Try To Curb False Alarms

MEADVILLE—State police and fire chiefs of volunteer fire departments of western Crawford County have set up a coordinated effort to curb the rash of false alarms that have plagued firemen lately.

Sgt. Earl T. Shutz, commander of the Meadville substation said troopers will work closely with firemen and Meadville Telephone Co. in apprehending persons who turn in false alarms.

Persons caught will be charged with a misdemeanor and ordered to pay fines up to $500 or undergo imprisonment not exceeding two years or both, Sgt. Shultz said.

At a recent meeting at the State Police substation, representatives of seven fire companies reported their departments have responded to six to 10 false alarms in the past two months.

The smallest raindrops are about one-twentieth of an inch in diameter.

Hope to Locate Nuclear Reactor in Pennsylvania

NEW YORK—General Public Utilities Corporation and the Atomic International Division of the North American Rockwell Corporation yesterday announced that they were undertaking a joint research and development program looking to the possible decision by 1970 to install a 350,000-500,000 KW sodium-cooled fast breeder nuclear reactor. It is hoped that the plant will be a part of the Atomic Energy Commission's demonstration plant program.

GPU owns four major electric utility companies, including Pennsylvania Electric Company. Other GPU companies are: Metropolitan Edison Company, Jersey Central Power and Light Company, and New Jersey Power and Light Company. The GPU system serves a population of 3.1 million in an area of approximately 24,000 square miles in Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

The results of the development program are satisfactory and other conditions are met, it is expected that the reactor will be installed by Penelco somewhere in its service area in Pennsylvania.

The three-year research and development program will be principally conducted at the headquarters of Atomic International in Canoga Park, California, a suburb of Los Angeles. Atomic International is a leading developer of the technology required for fast breeder reactors and has had broad experience in sodium-cooled reactor systems since 1949. It is currently conducting fast breeder development projects for a group of other utilities, the AEC, and under a company, sponsored program.

Subsidiaries of General Public Utilities are engaged in construction of three large water reactors, the first of which is expected to be placed in operation at Oyster Creek, N.J., in 1968. They have also been operating for several years on experimental and research reactor (at Saxton, Pa.) near Altoona. Light water reactors use only about 2 percent of the inherent energy of natural uranium. Fast breeder reactors will make it possible to increase this to 70 percent but with additional capital and processing costs.

We have examined the financial documents and accounting records of the Warren County School District as of June 30, 1967. Our examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and accordingly included such tests of the accounting records and such other auditing procedures as were required by law or we considered necessary in the circumstances.

In our opinion, the balance sheet and related statement of General Fund operations present fairly the financial position of the Warren County School District as of June 30, 1967, and the results of its recorded operations for the period then ended, in conformity with the principles and procedures established in the manual of accounting and related financial procedures for Pennsylvania school systems applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding fiscal year.

UNITED IN A DREAM

The Hippies of Hog Island

HOG ISLAND, Fla. (AP) — Way down upon the Suwannee River live the hippies of Hog Island — "United in a dream" — far from the old folks at home.

The hippies, so called by residents at the nearby fishing village of Suwannee, are four bearded young men and two "chicks" who have been camping on the 40-acre island for about six weeks.

And while Stephen Foster's immortal song refers to a "sad and dreary" world, the kids on Hog Island say they're having the time of their lives.

"We're a group of people living together closer than brothers and sisters," Stanley T. Rheinheimer told two sheriffs who visited the remote island at the mouth of the Suwannee on Florida's west coast Tuesday.

Rheinheimer, a 21-year-old Asheville, N.C., native who said he attended Arizona State University for two years, told the sheriffs the six sleep in separate sleeping bags and shun such traditional hippy fare as marijuana and LSD.

"We don't cause any trouble. We live innocently, and we don't bother anybody," he said.

"Yes," agreed 18-year-old Lynn "Criclet" Jacobs, "I don't see what the fuss is about; we're not doing anything wrong."

Concert Supports Youth Programs

The treasures of seven Bradford area youth programs were increased by $3,244 as a result of the October 12 concert of the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra in Bradford.

Ms. Virginia Medden, general chairman of a local arrangements committee for the concert, announced the financial results of the event at a dinner Tuesday evening in the Penn-hills Club, Bradford.

"In addition to being the cultural highlight of the year, the concert also proved tremendously successful in aiding community service youth projects," Mrs. Medden said.

She expressed the gratitude of the committee and the community to Columbia Gas of Pennsylvania, Inc., sponsors of the concert.

A total of 1,368 persons attended the concert, held in the Bradford Area High School auditorium. Of these, 938 were adults and 430 were students. The adults paid a total of $2,814 admission and the students, $430.

The proceeds were divided among the youth projects: the Bradford Community Outreach Program — $1,070.52; Bradford Boosters Club — $486.60; Central Christian Athletic Association — $486.60; Bradford Midget Football League — $486.60; Bradford Area Winter Recreation Project — $486.60; the WILD League — $113.54 and the Babe Ruth League — $113.54.

Mrs. Medden also thanked the Bradford Civic Music League for its assistance in promoting the concert.

William B. Otto, Bradford area manager for Columbia Gas, presented the checks to representatives of the beneficiary organizations and thanked the local committee people for their work.

Cricket said she joined the group less than a month ago after she quit her job at Gainesville, Fla.

With Cricket and Rheinheimer on the island are Paul Wayne Morgan, 21, of Duncan, Okla., a former student at Oklahoma State; James J. Lynard, 20, a native of North Dakota who said he attended one year of college at the University of Florida; David G. Breuning, 25, of Melbourne, Fla., a former junior college student; and Margaret Ann Zimmer, 21, a beautiful blue-eyed High Point, Miss., native who said she formerly worked as a hair dresser in California.

All said they came from broken homes.

Rheinheimer, a tall youth who wears an Indian headband, said eight others decided to "cut out" after arriving at the island.

Rheinheimer said the remaining members stay because they "share a common dream" of building an 80-foot fishing boat. Meanwhile, he said, they fish and hunt oysters and buy a few necessities on a budget of less than $7 a week-money saved from picking cucumbers.

"We mostly eat rice, beans, bread and whatever crabs and fish and oysters we can catch," he said. "We're too poor for pot and LSD and besides, we don't believe in it."
